Anti-lockdown stir flares across China

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE

ISOLATED protests in China against stringent Covid curbs are gaining traction and spreading to more cities as thousands of people, including college students, hit the streets and campuses on Sunday in Shanghai, Beijing, Wuhan and Nanjing, confronting police and even publicly calling for the resignation of President Xi Jinping.

In Shanghai, a large group of people gathered at Wulumuqi street and chanted "Xi Jinping step down, CCP step down", news agency AFP reported citing a verified video circulated on Chinese social media.

Such public display of defiance is rare in China, where the ruling Communist Party is known for crushing all kinds expressions of dissent. However, the pandemic seems to have changed all that with people being pushed to the brink by the government's insensitive back-to-back lockdowns, mass Covid tests and strict quarantine protocols. Experts say China's zero-Covid policy is stirring a rare public anger with people growing weary of the mindless restrictions.

According to reports, protests were also held at Beijing's elite Tsinghua University, Peking University and Communication University of China at Nanjing. Videos circulated online showed protesters holding up blank sheets of paper, a tactic used to evade censorship or arrest.

The protests, which began in the morning, intensified with the participation of hundreds of people by mid-afternoon, the BBC reported.

The developments come as China reported a record 39,506 domestic Covid cases on Sunday.

The protests seem to have escalated after several people died in last week's blaze in a high-rise building in remote north-west city of Urumqi in the Xinjiang region, allegedly because rescue efforts were hampered due to lockdowns. Xinjiang is one of the worst-affected regions where lockdown has been in force for more than 100 days.

While Chinese authorities refuted the notion that Covid restrictions caused the deaths in Urumqi, local administration did issue an apology and offered to phase out the curbs.

If the protests spread any further, it could pose a major challenge for Xi, who is just over a month into his third term in power.

Modi, Kharge, Kejri turn on Guj heat

DILIP SINGH KSHATRIYA @ Ahmedabad

CAMPAIGNING for the Gujarat elections hit a crescendo on Sunday with several national leaders of the BJP, Congress and AAP descending on the coastal state.

Speaking at a public meeting in Gujarat's Kheda district, Prime Minister Narendra Modi sharpened his attack on the Congress. "Gujarat had for a long time been a target of terrorism. People of Gujarat were killed in explosions in Surat and Ahmedabad. The Congress was ruling in Delhi then. We asked them to target terrorism but they targeted me instead. Terrorism was at peak in the country," he said.

Modi added that the spectre of terrorism will haunt the country until vote bank politics is eradicated. "We caught terrorists in Gujarat but the then Congress government in Delhi was saving terrorists for vote bank politics," he said. "During the Batla House encounter, Congress leaders cried in support of terrorists," he added.

Addressing a rally at Dediapada, Congress president Mallikarjun Kharge said India is a democratic country thanks to the Congress. "Modi and Shah ask what Congress did in the last 70 years. If the Congress had not worked in the last 70 years, we would not have seen a democracy today," he said.

Meanwhile, Congress leader and Rajasthan Chief Minister Ashok Gehlot took a swipe at Modi questioning his repeated visits to Gujarat. This, he said, shows the BJP is "scared" of the results of Gujarat polls.

Aam Aadmi Party leader and Delhi CM Arvind Kejriwal attacked both the BJP Congress at his Surat rally, and claimed Gujaratis want change this time.

Gujarat elections will be held in two phases – on December 1 and 5 – and the results will be declared on December 8.

Two jawans of the Indian Reserve Battalion, on election duty in Gujarat, were killed and two others were injured after their colleague opened fire over a dispute in a village near Porbandar on Saturday

POLL POSITION

Ticket aspirants muted out at Cong e-meeting

DEVARAJ B HIREHALLI @ Bengaluru

CONGRESS ticket aspirants from across the state, who have sent in their applications to the KPCC office paying Rs 2 lakh each, were disappointed as state party chief DK Shivakumar reportedly did not give them a chance to speak during a virtual meeting on Sunday.

While 1,450 aspirants have applied, around 900 logged in for the Zoom meeting at 4 pm. Though they waited for their turn, they did not get a chance and the meeting ended at 6 pm. "I was eager to speak and thought the leaders would pick aspirants randomly to express our views. But I was disappointed as it was one-sided with a heavy dose of instructions," rued an aspirant from Chikkaballapur district. P4

Compensation remains elusive for 170 Covid warriors in GPs

DEVARAJ B HIREHALLI @ Bengaluru

FAMILIES of most Covid warriors in the state have received compensation, but the kin of around 170 gram panchayat (GP) staffers are yet to get any ex-gratia or jobs on compassionate grounds.

The majority of the victims were panchayat development officers (PDOs), bill collectors, watermen and data entry operators. To fight for the cause of these families, the Karnataka Rajya Grama Panchayat Sadasyara Maha Okkuta is staging a dharna at Freedom Park on December 12 where members from 6,012 GPs from across the state are taking part, said Okkuta president Kadashettihalli Satish.

The RDPR Department on June 28, 2021 had ordered setting up of an 'ashwasane nidhi' (a relief fund) at the zilla panchayat level to pay compensation of Rs 30 lakh to the kin of each deceased. The ZPs were asked to contribute Rs 10 lakh and taluk panchayats (TPs) Rs 5 lakh towards the fund. But almost all ZPs and TPs expressed their inability because of paucity of funds. GPs too were asked to contribute Rs 50, 000 to Rs 3 lakh, depending on their revenue.

"The department imposed this on GPs that are facing a financial crunch as they have to meet their expenses, including electricity bills that are huge. As GP employees are appointed by committees headed by concerned ZP CEOs, it is the responsibility of the government to pay the compensation which hardly comes to Rs 50 crore for 170 victims," said Satish.

Except for 15 families in Belagavi, Udupi, Shivamogga, Davanagere and Tumakuru, who got compensation ranging from Rs 15 lakh to Rs 20 lakh, none of the other Covid deceased got any relief, said PDOs' Association state president H Boraiah.

"The families of these deceased GP workers are in distress, but have got no backing from the government," he said.

RDPR Additional Chief Secretary in-charge Uma Mahadevan told TNIE that she is unaware of the issue as she has just returned from her official visit to the UK and will soon address it.

In October, then ACS LK Atheek and Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai held separate meetings and had promised to resolve the issue.

Gadag farmer gets ₹8 for 205 kg of onions in B'luru

RAGHOTTAM KOPPAR @ Gadag

PRICES of agricultural crops fluctuate wildly, but still, this is quite shocking. A farmer from Gadag got Rs 8.36 after selling 205 kg of onions at the Yeshwanthpur market in Bengaluru. The receipt has gone viral after the distraught farmer posted it on social media to warn other farmers not to bring their produce to Bengaluru.

The wholesaler, who has issued the bill, has valued the onions at Rs 200 per quintal. But after deducting Rs 24 as porter charges and Rs 377.64 towards freight, he has given Rs 8.36 to the farmer, Pawadeppa Hallikeri from Timmapur village.

Nearly 50 farmers from Gadag, who had gone to sell onions at the Yeshwanthpur market transporting it over 415 km, were surprised to see the price at Rs 200 per quintal, while it was around Rs 500 just a few days ago.

A picture of the bill shared by Pawadeppa Hallikeri online

Furious at the ridiculous prices, farmers are now planning a protest to force the state government to announce a minimum support price for their produce.

"We farmers from Gadag have been affected by incessant rainfall this year and onions that we have grown are smaller in size," said Pawadeppa.

BELGIUM SHOCKED

Morocco stun Belgium 2-0 in a Group F game on Saturday

Japan 0-1 Costa Rica

A MOMENT TO REMEMBER

Argentina, needing a win to avoid early exit, were held goalless after over an hour's play against Mexico late on Saturday. Their talisman striker Lionel Messi had struggled to penetrate a heavily crowded defence. It was now or never. Messi needed just one chance. Receiving a cross just over 20 yards from goal, he hit a fierce low drive with his magical left foot to find the back of net sending packed stadium into a delirium

Later, Messi turned the provider, laying a pass to substitute Enzo Fernandez whose sublime finish – a curling right foot strike – found the top far corner net

THE EQUATION

A win against Poland in their last group tie will ensure last 16 spot for Argentina, who were shocked 1-2 by Saudi Arabia in their opening match. However, if they are held by Poland, their qualification will depend on the other result between Saudi Arabia and Mexico. A defeat will certainly send them home early | P13

A controversy erupted three weeks ago after Mysuru-Kodagu MP Pratap Simha objected to the domes, saying they reminded one of a gumbaz, while Ramadas argued that they represent the Mysuru Palace. The verbal duel between the two BJP leaders had divided the party workers in the city.

FOOD ANIMAL TAG

Himalayan yak milk, meat may soon hit stores near you

PRASANTA MAZUMDAR @ Guwahati

YAK farmers of Himalayan highlands have a reason to cheer as the scientific panel of Food Safety and Standard Authority of India (FSSAI) has approved the Department of Animal Husbandry & Dairying's recommendation to declare Himalayan yak as a food animal.

The 'food animal' tag will become official once it is notified in the gazette after approval by competent authority.

"The reason why the yak population is decreasing is because yak farming is less remunerative. The animal's milk and meat are not part of the conventional meat and dairy industry and consumed only locally. There is also no big market," Dr Mihir Sarkar, director of ICARN, told this newspaper. He said if yak is declared a food animal, the economic benefits it could bring may encourage more people to take up yak farming.

Yak milk is highly nutritious. It is rich in fat and protein and contains many essential minerals. It is also deemed to have medicinal value. As per the nutritional analysis, yak milk contains 78-82% water, 7.5-8.5% fat, 4.9-5.3% protein, 4.5-5.0% lactose and 12.3-13.4% fat and solids-not-fat. Traditional yak milk products are central to the cuisine of the highlanders.

The meat of yak is considered very lean and better than beef. India has some 58,000 yaks, found on the heights of Arunachal, Sikkim, Himachal Pradesh and Ladakh.

In Arunachal, their population is estimated to be around 24,000, found in Tawang, West Kameng and Shi Yomi districts. Though the animal has intense socio-cultural significance to the pastoral rearing communities, the past few decades witnessed an unprecedented decline in its population.

The decline is partly blamed on a lack of interest on the party of today's youngsters to engage in yak rearing as it is a demanding job that offers very less in return.

Aero India from February 13-17

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

THE 14th edition of Aero India will be held from February 13-17 at the Air Force Station in Yelahanka, announced the Ministry of Defence (MoD) on Sunday. The previous edition of the biennial event was held in a hybrid model in 2021 due to Covid as there were several restrictions in place. Asia's premier air show which was traditionally held for five days was cut short to three. The 14th edition is scheduled for five days and the general public too will be allowed.

Bengaluru-based defence PSU Hindustan Aeronautics Limited (HAL) will organise the event, in which exhibitors from across the world are expected to take part. In the previous edition, over 500 companies from more than 35 countries had taken part.

Amid speculation and reports that the show would be shifted out of Bengaluru to Lucknow, Aero India 2021 was held in Bengaluru and Defence Minister Rajnath Singh had clarified that Bengaluru was the best city to host the show. "Most of the industries related to aerospace are located in Bengaluru and Karnataka. This makes the city the most ideal place to hold the air show," Singh had stated.

"CHERRY blossoms are famous in Japan and fall colours are famous in the US, but we have something of our own as well in the form of the serial blossoming of flowers throughout the year and we need to pay more attention to it," said Priya Chetty, founder of Heritage Beku at the Huvu Habba event in Cubbon Park on Sunday.

The event was organised in collaboration with A Green Venture, Horticulture Department and Karnataka Tourism Department. It was conducted as the last event of the organisation's Heritage Week.

"We want to preserve the nature of the city and make people appreciate the rich heritage that this city holds. This event is to educate, see and feel nature up close, which we don't do often," she said.

The event saw many nature enthusiasts and children from Parikrama Centre for Learning gather at the central circle of the park appreciating the pink tabebuia tree in full bloom.

Kavya Chandra, the founder of A Green Venture and an expert in plants and trees, educated visitors about the history of various trees in Cubbon Park.

Cantt Bridge to Mehkri Circle ride to get easier

3.5 km stretch to be completed by March

MOHAMMED YACOOB @Bengaluru

THE 3.5-km ride from Cantonment Railway Bridge to Mehkri Circle remains slow during peak hours due to traffic snarls and undulation in some parts. Work to fix the stretch is likely to be completed by March next year.

Anand Pramodh, a contractor who is executing work for BBMP for the past year, told TNIE, "Road development work is based on the 'Light TenderSure Model' which means the ducts, unlike in TenderSure roads, will not have high density fibre pipes on either side of the roads along the footpath. This apart, the pipes will be put on the right side and the existing solid stone masonry drain will be retained on the left side, with minor rectification to avoid financial burden."

The project is being monitored by engineer-in-chief BS Prahalad. One side of the main carriageway on the right side is likely to be completed by December. Work from Mehkri Circle to Fun World is complete. Milling (process of scraping the surface) is done from Fun World gate to Wine and Cheese on Jayamahal Road.

According to Hebbal MLA Byrathi Suresh, part of the road stretch falls under his assembly segment. From JC Nagar arch opposite Fun World to the right side of Jayamahal Road connecting Mehkri Circle, belongs to Hebbal assembly and development is at the cost of Rs 6 crore. The stretch also falls under Malleswaram and Shivajinagar assembly segments, and in all, is likely to cost Rs 18 crore.

Regarding the construction of a hospital in Sringeri, the CM said that there is a space crunch, which will be addressed soon.

Child panel must conduct balanced probe: KAMS

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

THE Associated Management of Primary and Secondary Schools, Karnataka (KAMS), has said that issues of juvenile violence and crimes are increasing, with teachers afraid to take action.

In a recent case, a parent sought an inquiry from the Karnataka State Commission for Protection of Child Rights (KSCPCR) into the suspension of his two high school-going sons from their school. While sources said the suspension was done due to disciplinary issues, since the students were causing problems to their peers, the parent had alleged that the school had had a history of targeting his sons.

KAMS wrote to the commission, asking that the inquiry also consider the views of students who had allegedly fallen victim to the suspended. "With issues where children are threatening suicide for being pulled up for cheating by teachers and parents approaching KSCPCR for a school taking the minimum action to safeguard its students, teachers are afraid to take any action against disruptive students," KAMS general secretary Shashi Kumar said.

He said the association had received complaints of students engaging in deviant activities, including smoking, drugs, drinking, driving and involving in gang wars. "The issue of juvenile crime is increasing, and it has become a bad situation for other students, as well as teachers and parents trying to discipline the children. We have written to the commission to conduct inquiry in a way that is respectful to the other students, who may have been affected by the suspended students' actions as well, as many are afraid to come forward," he said. He added that KSCPCR should undertake inquiries that are problematic to students and parents, rather than undertaking individual inquiries in the interest of only one parent.

Linguists, historians hit out at Hindi imposition

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

RENOWNED historian Prof A Karunanandan said that imposition of Hindi as the official language would create two segments of Indians. He was speaking at a webinar organised by the All India Save Education Committee (AISEC), on 'The imposition of Hindi as a sole official language and medium of instruction and removal of English'. He said English had aided the country in opposing British rule, as opposed to any Indian languages.

> Though the British brought English to India, English also opened the floodgates of development of scientific temperament, Renaissance thinking and helped our national movement
> Prof A Karunanandan

"English brings more benefits to the people of India than any other language spoken in India at present. There were no national movements through Sanskrit or Hindi, the national movement was built using English. If Hindi is made the sole official language, then it will create two segments in Indian society, and the majority of non-Hindi speaking people will face a disadvantage. Our Constitution recognises us as a multilingual union," he said. Jadhavpur University professor Tarun Kanti Naskar called the report presented by the Official Language Committee "unconstitutional". "Though the British brought English to India, English also opened the floodgates of development of scientific temperament, Renaissance thinking and helped our national movement. We would not have got thinkers and personalities like Vidyasagar, Vivekananda or many more without English. Now, the government attitude to remove English will move our students away from real knowledge and education," he said.

Renowned linguist and cultural activist Dr Ganesh N Devy said the question of making Hindi the sole official language should not arise, especially as 70 per cent of the Indian population is non-Hindi speakers. "Germany and Italy, which emerged as monolingual countries, had to face fascistic regimes. On the other hand, India respected all languages in the freedom movement," he said.

Tissue paper 'BOMB' scare strikes IndiGo flight

S LALITHA @Bengaluru

A tissue paper with the word 'BOMB' scrawled on it, found behind a passenger seat on an IndiGo flight arriving from Kolkata to Bengaluru, sent security agencies into a tizzy on Sunday morning. However, the note was later found to be a hoax and a complaint was registered by the airline at the airport police station.

According to airport sources, flight 6E 379 had departed from Netaji Subash Chandra Bose International Airport at 5.29 am and arrived at the Kempegowda International Airport (KIA) at 8.01 am. Over 200 passengers on board had alighted from the aircraft.

"The airline received intimation about a bomb threat on board and then alerted security agencies. The empty aircraft was immediately isolated from the parking bay. Checks were carried out inside the aircraft, when they came across the tissue paper with an open threat issued anonymously with the letters 'BOMB' (in English) in blue ink behind seat 6D," sources said.

All standard operating procedures were followed, with the Bomb Disposal Squad pressed into action. The Central Industrial Security Force and the dog squad carried out checks inside the flight.

"The flight was completely sanitised. No problem was found anywhere. One of the passengers on board is a suspect. Further investigations are on," another source said.

Meanwhile, IndiGo approached the KIA police station. Police said they received a complaint from the airline around 8.30 am.

"We have booked an NCR (Non-Cognizable Report). It will be presented before the Judicial Magistrate First Class Court at Devanahalli on Monday, and an FIR will be filed under the specific sections as directed by the court," a police source said.

A statement released by IndiGo said, "Due to a specific bomb threat, IndiGo flight 6E 379 was taken for search by the security agencies on arrival at Bengaluru airport. As per protocol, the aircraft was taken to a remote bay."

Daily Starscope

PETER VIDAL

28TH November: Mercury, the planet of wit and wisdom, is soon to be aligned with eccentric Uranus, which explains why it's possible to think one thing one minute and another, the next. The conclusion seems to be that there is no single truth, just many points of view - and a great deal of random emotion in the air!

ARIES (Mar 21 - Apr. 20)
It's time for second chances, especially if you're regretting any mistakes. Don't expect anything too wonderful today, but, as the week passes, you may begin to deal with old memories and lay certain ghosts to rest. The answers to your questions may be found where you least expect them.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 - May 21)
Today's lunar alignments are not exactly restful, partly because your traditional, comfortable habits will be challenged, but also because you might have to shell out a little more money than usual. Yet extravagance is sometimes a cosmic necessity!

GEMINI (May 22 - June 21)
The same set of lunar challenges to your sign happens once a month, regular as clockwork, though the dates vary. When this happens, as it does today, other people are mysteriously motivated to challenge your feelings and decisions. Listen carefully to their good advice, though.

CANCER (June 22 - July 23)
A little hard work never did anyone any harm. The only trouble with your solar chart is that whenever the Moon favours a business like routine, as it does now, you are psychologically inclined to irresponsibility! But, then, as people who are familiar with you know, you are a complicated person!

LEO (July 24 - Aug. 23)
Mercury, the celestial trickster, is playing a new role in your solar chart, rewarding all of you who never gave up hope, even when there seemed no chance of success. Over the next two or three weeks, you will have an opportunity, a slight one admittedly, to right a wrong.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 - Sept. 23)
Along with many other people, you are about to find that your opinions and attitudes are going to have to change. Any Virgo an survival course over the next month must take into account the need for sincere ideals and spiritual growth. Only the highest standards will do, but then you know that already.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 - Oct. 23)
Something rather strange is about to happen. The theme for the week is bringing hidden things into the open, revealing secrets and uncovering the truth. You might be rather surprised by what you find, and you may decide to alter your plans as a result.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 - Nov. 22)
Enough has been said about your professional hopes, and also about any involvement in a partner's ambitions. However, at the risk of sounding like a cracked record, I must remind you that from now until another three months have passed, a number of old emotional issues will return to the top of the agenda.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 - Dec. 22)
The Moon will encourage you to imagine that the world lies at your feet. There's a certain magic in the air, which lends you the courage and confidence necessary to succeed. As soon as you decide that something should be done, other people will have to fall into line.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 23 - Jan. 20)
Keep yourself to yourself if you wish. After all, nobody has any automatic right to pry into your private affairs. The best way to use your planetary energies is first to have as much rest as you need, and then to involve yourself in activities with a charitable slant.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 - Feb. 19)
If you imagined that one particular social liaison had disappeared for ever, think again. There is everything to be gained from reopening old contacts, even those which involve a fair degree of pain or regret. You might soon discover that somebody who you thought never cared for you is really rather well-disposed.

PISCES (Feb. 20 - Mar 20)

'Health for All' mission to make K'taka free of hearing impairment

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

HEALTH Minister Dr K Sudhakar said the Karnataka government will provide free cochlear implants to 500 children below the age of six, who were born with congenital hearing loss.

The minister said the state health department is working on a mission with the slogan 'Health for All' to cover every aspect of health and well-being.

"As part of it, a new initiative has been planned to make Karnataka free from hearing impairment. Special attention has been paid to eliminating hearing loss in children under six years of age," Sudhakar said, reviewing the progress of the 'Hearing Impairment Free Karnataka' programme, announced in the 2022-23 budget.

"This year, special attention has been paid to solving the problems of children with congenital hearing impairment, and the government has made all arrangements to provide free cochlear implants to 500 children to improve their speech and hearing ability. In the current financial year, 1,939 children below the age of six years have been identified with hearing impairment. Most of them have suffered from congenital deafness and the main reason for this is consumption of medicine, viral infection, suffocation and shock in the mother during the prenatal period," he added.

As many as 20 hospitals, including KC General Hospital, Indira Gandhi Children's Institute, Bowring and Lady Curzon Hospital, Bangalore Medical College – BMCRI and KIMS Hubli -- have been identified to perform the procedure. "Additional hospitals will be included for free surgery. An honorarium of Rs 250 will be given to Asha workers who help in the identification of such children and aid the entire process," the minister said.

So far, 62 children have been operated on and 258 children are being monitored. Initially, 142 children will be receiving hearing aid treatment

Dr K Sudhakar, Health Minister

At present, 652 children have been identified, of whom 586 children are receiving treatment at various levels. "So far, 62 children have been operated on and 258 children are being monitored. Initially, 142 children will be receiving hearing aid treatment," Sudhakar added.

Beneficiaries are identified by audiology teams working under the National Programme for Prevention and Control of Deafness (NPPCD), in collaboration with Mobile Health Teams under the Rashtriya Bal Swasthya Karyakram (RBSK). Eligible children will be sent to taluk and district hospitals for further evaluation and management, the minister said.

A mother of two was stabbed by her former boyfriend for not accepting his proposal to marry him, near Kadirayyana Palya in Indiranagar on Friday night.

The injured has been identified as Amuda (26), a resident of Kadirayyana Palya, and the police are on the lookout for the accused Nawaz, an auto driver and a resident of Ambedkar Nagar, and his associate.

Police said Amuda and Nawaz were in a relationship, but Nawaz got married to another woman after which Amuda married Elumalai in 2014. She was living in Ambedkar Nagar with her husband, but Nawaz continued to pester her to marry him. Elumalai, who learnt about this, deserted his wife following which, she returned to her mother's house in Kadirayyana Palya about a year ago.

"Nawaz, however, continued to stalk her. On Friday night, he went and knocked on her door asking her to come out as he had to talk to her personally, but she refused. About an hour later, she went out to bring chips for her children when Nawaz attacked her with a knife and stabbed her in the face, neck and back before escaping with an associate on a bike. We have taken up an attempt-to-murder case and are on the lookout for the accused," the police added.

Vande Bharat Express proves to be a big hit

S LALITHA @Bengaluru

THE 30-minute time gain that the semi high-speed Vande Bharat train offers passengers between Mysuru and Chennai via Bengaluru compared to Shatabdi Express, the other premium train on the route, appears to have caught the public imagination. Ever since its launch on November 11, Vande Bharat has been running completely full daily and with a long waiting list too.

Booking statistics released by the South Western Railway Zone from November 12 to November 22 has revealed the overwhelming demand for the train, which takes 390 minutes from Chennai to Mysuru and 385 minutes in the return direction. In comparison, the Shatabdi takes an additional 30 minutes in both directions.

The VB has 14 AC Chair Cars (CC) plus two Executive AC Chair Cars (EC) with 112 revolving seats. There are 1,092 seats in the CC category with each ticket priced at Rs 780 compared to an EC ticket costing Rs 1,660.

"The EC category of VB has an average booking of 147% while the CC category has a booking of 115% from Chennai to Mysuru (Train No. 20607). In the direction from Mysuru to Chennai (Train no. 20608), the EC category has an average booking of 125% while the CC category has 97% booking," said Chief Public Relations Officer (SWR) Aneesh Hegde. The waiting list to travel on the train is huge, he added.

Stats show that during the same period, the Shatabdi had just 64% and 85% booking for the EC and CC categories, respectively, from Chennai to Mysuru (Train no. 12007) and 75% and 98% in the return direction (Train no. 12008).

Explaining the huge demand, Hegde said, "VB, which offers the comfort of an airline on rails, is faster than Shatabdi and is increasingly preferred by business people, students and tourists to travel between Mysuru, Bengaluru and Chennai. It is in sync with the next generation's aspiration - they don't want to just travel, but have an experience which is memorable, comfortable and enjoyable."

Barring Wednesdays, the VB departs daily from Chennai at 5.50 am, reaches KSR Bengaluru at 10.25 am and Mysuru at 12.30 pm. In the return direction, it departs from Mysuru at 1.05 pm, reaches KSR at 2.55 pm and Chennai at 7.35 pm.

It weighed 112 gram and was spotted by an electrician on Saturday afternoon, when he visited the plant to carry out repair work. An airport source said the STP is located near the air side (where flights take off). "He found the biscuit, which was made in the United Arab Emirates, on top of the STP, and resembled a brick. The electrician immediately alerted the Central Industrial Security Force and they alerted Bengaluru Customs," the source said. It is highly likely that the biscuit was flushed down a toilet and reached the STP, he added. It was handed over to the Air Intelligence unit of Customs.

Hubballi cops recover `60L from cyber fraudsters

Dharwad: Action by Hubballi Dharwad police saved around ₹60 lakh from the grasp of cyber criminals. From January till date, as many as 300 cyber crimes have been reported. Hubballi Dharwad Police Commissioner Labhu Ram said the cyber economic and narcotics crime section is working round the clock to safeguard the people. If a person feels that they had been deceived, they should register a complaint within the stipulated time of one hour with all the details. "We have been creating awareness among public but every now and then people become easy preys to such miscreants. We also receive complaints over phone but it will be better to appear in person so that every detail can be fetched and maximum efforts can be put in to retrieve cash," he added. A social activist alleged that the cyber crime station is in Hubballi and if a person from Dharwad wants to register a complaint, they have to travel almost an hour. There is a need for another cyber crime police station in Dharwad, he said.

Masked men break into bank, escape with ₹14 lakh cash, gold worth ₹3.5 crore

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

IN a major bank heist, a gang of four masked men broke into the Karnataka Gramin Bank at Hosahalli near Doddaballapura on the intervening night of Saturday and Sunday and decamped with Rs 14 lakh in cash and 5 kg of gold worth Rs 3.5 crore.

A senior police officer said the bank was closed on Saturday. A passerby noticed the main door cut into pieces and alerted the Hosahalli police. The incident was caught on CCTV camera and the miscreants had used a gas cutter to break the shutter and break into the strong room.

A police team along with forensic experts rushed to the spot and inspected the crime scene. Based on a complaint by bank manager Tanu Choube, a case of burglary has been registered and a special team has been formed to nab the accused.

The bank is located in a very old building and there were no proper security measures, including deployment of security personnel. The strong room alarm also didn't go off. Three staffers were in the bank on Friday and they shut it down around 5.30 pm.

"The burglars also destroyed the DVR connected to the CCTV camera inside the bank. We only found footage of them entering. No footage was found of what they did inside. They hatched the robbery plot well in advance and studied the situation around the premises for more than a month. Locals might have been involved in the crime. We are also questioning the bank staff," the officer said.

Farmers sacrificed their fertile lands and relocated, but continue to suffer after 60 yrs, says CM

PREVIOUS GOVTS FAILED SHARAVATHI EVACUEES: BOMMAI

Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai addresses Sharavathi project evacuees in Thirthahalli on Sunday | EXPRESS

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Shivamogga

CHIEF Minister Basavaraj Bommai blamed the previous governments for the delay in rehabilitation of Sharavathi project evacuees, and assured that he will meet the Union Forest Minister Bhupender Yadav seeking to clear the hurdles of the evacuees, who have been waiting for over 60 years.

Addressing a meeting with the evacuees in Thirthahalli on Sunday, Bommai said that the state has been reaping benefits of electricity due to the sacrifices made by Sharavathi project evacuees. "Nobody should forget their sacrifices. The farmers sacrificed their fertile lands and relocated. But, I am surprised and pained that even after 60 years, successive governments have failed to address their issues even though they had plenty of opportunities," he said.

Clarifying that he is not indulging in politics over the issue, Bommai said that the project was initiated before the introduction of the Conservation of Forests Act. "The then state government could have conducted a survey and allotted land to the evacuees. The government missed the opportunity. The Union government, before 1978, had asked the state governments to identify the reserve forests. The then state government had the opportunity to allot the land and declare the rest of the land as a reserved forest," he said.

He also rued that a second opportunity was also lost. "From 1978-80, there was another opportunity for a resurvey of forest land. The then government could have allotted the land for the evacuees, but justice was not delivered," he said.

But Bommai reiterated that approval from the central government is mandatory in this case, as the Conservation of Forests Act comes is a central act.

"Our government has started the process to allot land to the evacuees. The survey has already started, and will be completed in December. A delegation led by former Chief Minister BS Yediyurappa has already met the Union Minister for Environment, Forest and Climate Change Bhupender Yadav. He has asked the delegation to visit him after the survey is done. I will also visit him once the survey is completed," he said.

IN SEARCH OF A SAFE SEAT!

CONGRESS, which is gung-ho about its prospects in the 2023 Assembly polls and has got a headstart over other parties in the candidates' selection process as well as setting the poll narrative, is facing a peculiar situation in Karnataka.

There is a big rush from aspirants for party tickets. So much so that it can cause some heartburn among those who fail to make it, if not result in dissidence. In contrast, one of its tallest leaders and a chief ministerial aspirant Siddaramaiah is still searching for a safe seat.

Siddaramaiah is among very few leaders with a pan-Karnataka appeal. He was the only CM after Devaraj Urs to complete the full term of five years. His predicament over seat selection and a sense of vulnerability, that too when Congress is eager to take the battle to the BJP's doorsteps, speaks volumes about apprehensions over internal dynamics taking the wind out of the party's sails in the nick of time.

In 2018, the Congress leader won from Badami in Bagalkot district with a narrow margin of little over 1,600 votes against BJP's B Sriramulu, but lost to Janata Dal (S) candidate GT Deve Gowda with a big margin of over 36,000 votes in Chamundeshwari in his home district of Mysuru. In fact, his decision to contest from two seats did not help the party.

Perhaps due to logistical and political reasons, Siddaramaiah ruled out the possibility of seeking re-election from Badami, which is around 450 km from the state capital. Chamundeshwari in the Vokkaliga heartland looks difficult.

So, the names of many constituencies, including Kolar and Varuna, started popping up. Internal differences – not BJP's strength – that led to veteran leader KH Muniyappa's defeat in the 2018 Lok Sabha polls, could prove dicey for the former CM, although his camp will be relying heavily on the caste arithmetic.

Murmurs in the party circles after Siddaramiah's visit to Kolar indicated that things are not going to be that easy. Also, the possibility of a tacit understanding between BJP and JDS to defeat him, and a section of Vokkaligas seeing him as a challenger to state Congress president DK Shivakumar in the chief ministerial race could make matters difficult for the former CM.

In fact, in 2004, then Chief Minister SM Krishna had kept everyone guessing about his constituency till he filed a nomination from the Chamarajpet Assembly segment in Bengaluru at the last minute. Like now, the mood in Congress at that time was upbeat. Krishna was confident of bringing Congress back to power, so he took the risk of going for early elections. The strategy failed, and a coalition government was formed with the support of JDS. That experiment did not last long and eventually paved the way for BJP's emergence in a big way on the political scene in Karnataka.

Also, given what happened to then state Congress president Dr G Parameshwara in the 2013 elections, Siddaramaiah may not take any chances and finally go to Varuna in Mysuru. The constituency, which is now represented by his son Dr Yathindra Siddaramaiah, had elected the former CM in 2008 and 2013. It is considered to be a relatively safe seat, but a lot depends on BJP and JDS strategies. Parameshwara, who was in the race for the chief ministerial post, lost the Assembly polls.

From the party's point of view, a safe seat will give the former CM enough legroom to campaign for the other candidates. Unlike BJP, which has a strong line-up of national leaders who will spread across the state in the next few weeks and months, the Congress' strategy depends largely on Siddaramaiah and Shivakumar, although Rahul Gandhi and some central leaders, too, will be campaigning extensively.

Siddaramaiah is always at the forefront of the Congress's attack on BJP. He also receives most of the fire from the opposition. Many in Congress also feel that his diatribe against Prime Minister Narendra Modi and a strong anti-Hindutva stance often does more harm than good when the party is trying hard to win over the majority community and get rid of the tag that it goes out of the way to appease certain minority communities.

The Congress under Mallikarjuna Kharge's leadership is likely to look at loyalty and winnability as major criteria for giving tickets. On its part, the ruling BJP – which has set an ambitious target of winning 150 seats – has its share of issues when it comes to ticket distribution. Going with the Gujarat and Himachal Pradesh formula of not giving tickets to many sitting MLAs may be a good idea to beat anti-incumbency at the local level. But it can turn out to be risky if not handled well in each of the segments as Congress and JDS will be eager to exploit the situation.

As far as Siddaramaiah is concerned, the BJP will make all attempts to defeat him, or at least confine him to his constituency. Like in a Football game, the opponents will mark players like Lionel Messi and try to slow them down. But, right passes from the teammates make all the difference!

Will fight for Vokkaliga quota: Ex-CM

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE

RAKING up the contentious reservation issue five months ahead of the 2023 Assembly elections, former Chief Minister Sadananda Gowda said that since the Vokkaliga community comprise at least 10 per cent to 12 per cent of the population, the state and central governments must consider the issue of quota for the community.

"We are ready to take to the streets to ensure that our demand is fulfilled," he said. The state government had recently taken a decision to hike the SC/ST reservation. "This is not charity but our legitimate right," Gowda asserted.

Speaking during an agitation meeting at the Vokkaliga association office in Bengaluru, he said, "I am from the ruling party, which prevents me from saying everything in public. But I promise I will raise the issue."

"When I was the CM, Nirmalanandanatha Swamiji fought to prevent a member of the Vokkaliga community from stepping down as the CM, in 2012," he recalled.

During the winter session of the Parliament, "we will put pressure on the Union authorities regarding demands of the Vokkaliga community", he said, claiming that the Kantharaj report has been distorted.

Main criteria is winnability, says Siddu

SHIVAKUMAR said the candidates to contest the 2023 Assembly polls will be chosen based on an internal survey and the opinion of leaders from the respective Assembly constituency. CLP leader Siddaramaiah said winnability is the main criterion. The aspirants were instructed to keep an eye on the deletion of voters from the electoral list.

"This is a good task as only those who are really with the party will take up, while others will get eliminated," said Iqbal Ahmed, a senior leader of the party and an aspirant for the Tumakuru City seat.

What impressed the aspirants was a slide presentation showing the KPCC war room, set up to handle 2023 Assembly polls that is headed by Sasikanth Senthil, a former IAS officer. He said, "Around 3-4 per cent of Congress voters do not turn up for voting on the polling day and that translates to 20-30 seats." KPCC working president Salim Ahmed, who was the co-host for the meeting, said that another meeting is likely to be held in which AICC General Secretary Randeep Singh Surjewala, who skipped Sunday's meeting, will interact with the aspirants.

"If you (media) are boycotted now, you would boycott 'Bahuroopi' scheduled in December!" they said. And to top it, several mediapersons have complained that Addanda also speaks ill of the media.

K'TAKA, MAHA ARM-WRESTLE OVER BORDER AREAS

NAUSHAD BIJAPUR

THE Flare-up of the long-drawn boundary dispute between Karnataka and Maharashtra has put both state governments headed by BJP on tenterhooks, in the run-up to assembly elections in Karnataka in early 2023. The boundary dispute case is slated for hearing in the Supreme Court on November 30.

The Maharashtra government initiated legal recourse by filing a petition in the Supreme Court in 2004, demanding the merger of hundreds of villages and towns of Karnataka into Maharashtra. The neighbouring state resorting to pressure tactics is a provocation to the Karnataka government at a time when crucial polls are around the corner.

As fresh tensions escalated on the border after pro-Maharashtra groups vandalised Karnataka buses, Maharashtra Deputy Chief Minister Devendra Fadnavis stoked the fire, stating, "Not a single village/town from Maharashtra will go to Karnataka, and the Maharashtra government will fight strongly in the Supreme Court to claim Belagavi, Karwar, Nipani and other Maratha areas on the border."

Recently, a meeting of governors of Karnataka and Maharashtra was held, where the simmering interstate boundary dispute was discussed.

LATEST SPARK

The boundary dispute flared up following violence on the border in the past few days. Several buses from Karnataka were pelted with stones and Marathi slogans written on them near Miraj (Maharashtra). To avoid the situation from getting worse, Maharashtra banned the movement of about 300 of its buses to parts of Belagavi two days ago. Reacting strongly to the way the Maharashtra government is trying to rake up the dispute, CM Bommai hit out at the neighbouring government and decided to have an all-party meeting to make its stand stronger in court.

BEGINNING OF DISPUTE

The boundary row between the states erupted after the reorganisation of states in 1956, which resulted in the inclusion of Belagavi and its surrounding areas into Karnataka. Protests broke out across Maharashtra against the merger of Belagavi with Karnataka state.

When the boundary dispute continued to take a serious turn, former Prime Minister Indira Gandhi constituted the Meherchand Mahajan Commission in August 1966 at the behest of the Maharashtra government, in an attempt to resolve the vexed dispute. Although then Karnataka chief minister S Nijalingappa and Kannadigas opposed the commission, Indira Gandhi took him and then Maharashtra chief minister V P Nayak into confidence over the issue.

From August 1966 to September 1967, Meherchand Mahajan conducted an intensive study and survey of areas on the Karnataka-Maharashtra border, and came to the conclusion that 264 villages, towns and cities of Karnataka should go to Maharashtra, and 248 areas from Maharashtra should be merged with Karnataka. According to his report, Belagavi remained an integral part of Karnataka. He recommended the inclusion of Kasargod (Kerala) in Karnataka and gave Nipani and Nandagad to Maharashtra. He also recommended the inclusion of Solapur and Akkalkot into Karnataka.

The Maharashtra government rejected the Mahajan Commission report as it desperately wanted Belagavi to be merged with Maharashtra. The Gandhi government did not take the boundary issue seriously after Maharashtra leaders outright rejected the report.

The launch of Maharashtra Ekikaran Samiti (MES) by pro-Maharashtra forces in Belagavi, with the aim to "reunite Maharashtra" by merging Belagavi and other adjoining areas of Karnataka with Maharashtra, led to the victory of several MES-supported candidates in Khanapur, Nipani, Belagavi and surrounding assembly constituencies for several decades.

Noted Kannada leader, Ashok Chandargi, says pro-Maharashtra groups contended that Belagavi and its adjoining areas should be merged with Maharashtra as MES-supported candidates continued to win assembly elections from many constituencies, including Belagavi, Khanapur and Nipani.

However, political equations changed in Belagavi in 1999 when the pro-Maharashtra MES could not win even a single seat in Belagavi region. Chandargi points out that the Maharashtra government and MES, should have stopped demanding Belagavi after it failed to win even a single seat.

In 2004, the Maharashtra government formed a committee headed by noted legal expert YV Chandrachud, and decided to file a petition in Supreme Court on the latter's decision, demanding the merger of 865 villages, towns and cities of Karnataka into Maharashtra. Since then, both the Karnataka and Maharashtra governments have prepared documents to make their case stronger in the Supreme Court, but the case is yet to be heard.

The Karnataka government contends that boundary disputes do not come under the purview of court, and only Parliament has the right to take a call on issues related to state boundaries. Yet, Maharashtra is confident that the case will be admitted when it is taken up in the coming week.

In Maharashtra, while leaders of the Shiv Sena, NCP, BJP and Congress are united in demanding Belagavi and its adjoining areas, leaders and noted intellectuals from Karnataka strongly feel the boundary dispute between the two states is a closed chapter.

MAHA TAKES SERIOUS STAND

The Maharashtra government has taken several serious measures in the past few months to bolster its stand in court. In a recent meeting, Maharashtra Chief Minister Eknath Shinde named two cabinet ministers as in-charge of the boundary dispute, and decided to initiate all measures to fight the case strongly. Several leaders of Maharashtra, including DyCM Fadnavis, said the Maharashtra government will claim all cities and towns located on the border. In a series of tweets, he provoked the Karnataka government by stating that not a single village from Maharashtra will go to Karnataka.

Two days ago, Shinde had softened his stand, saying the issue should be resolved by the states through talks. He said though a case was pending before the apex court, both states must work out measures to resolved the dispute amicably.

CM BOMMAI ON DISPUTE

Sending a strong message to the Maharashtra government, Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai had announced in the state assembly in December 2021 that "Karnataka will not give up even an inch of its land. Suvarna Vidhana Soudha in Belagavi is another power centre of Karnataka and will remain in the state until the sun and moon exist".

Reacting strongly to the tweets by Fadnavis, Bommai retaliated with his own volley. He said Fadnavis had issued provocative statements with regard to the boundary row and that his dreams will never come true. "The state government is committed to protect its land, water and boundaries. The question of Karnataka giving up even an inch of land does not arise. Our demand has been to include Solapur and Akkalkot, which are predominantly occupied by Kannadigas, with Karnataka. The Maharashtra government raked up the issue by moving the Supreme Court, but it will never achieve success in that. The Karnataka government is committed to strengthen its team to face the legal battle with Maharashtra firmly," said Bommai.

He told reporters in Davangere on Saturday that the case filed by Maharashtra in the Supreme Court did not have any legal standing, and that Karnataka is prepared to face the case. "We will deal with the case firmly in the Supreme Court under the leadership of senior legal expert Mukul Rohtagi and Uday Holla. The geography of Karnataka will never change. I have convened an all-party meeting in this connection, with experts from different sections. An all-party meeting is also scheduled to be held in Belagavi shortly," said Bommai.

REVENUE FACTOR

The merger of Khanapur and Nipani into Maharashtra, and of Solapur and Akkalkot into Karnataka, will eventually help Maharashtra commercially. Nipani produces tobacco in abundance, while Khanapur is rich in forest reserves, and will generate huge revenue for Maharashtra, sources said. As per the Mahajan Commission, Nipani and Khanapur are two commercially rich areas which will go to Maharashtra, besides hundreds of other villages and towns from Karnataka. On the other hand, Karnataka will not be able to benefit financially if it gets several areas of Maharashtra, including Solapur and Akkalkot.

BJP Telangana president Bandi Sanjay Kumar being detained by the police on his way to Bhainsa on Sunday | EXPRESS

Police deny nod for Bandi yatra, detain MP

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Adilabad/ Karimnagar

POLICE took BJP State president Bandi Sanjay Kumar into custody on Sunday night while the Karimnagar MP was on his way to Nirmal to kick off the fifth phase of his Praja Sangrama Yatra from Bhainsa town on Monday morning after holding a public meeting.

The detention happened just after Nirmal SP Ch Praveen Kumar denied permission for the padayatra and public meeting in Bhainsa town. However, Sanjay was adamant about going ahead on with the padayatra, come what may. According to police sources, permission was denied as Bhainsa has traditionally been a communally-sensitive town and that the cops didn't want the communal amity in the town to be disturbed.

It was at around 8 pm when Sanjay's convoy reached Venkatapur village of Korutla mandal in Jagtial district where the police blocked the road with their vehicles. Police personnel stationed there in large numbers forcibly took Sanjay into custody even as BJP workers raised slogans and tried to prevent the detention.

According to sources, Sanjay was being taken back to Karimnagar, where he could be placed under house arrest.

In his statement to the media, the BJP State chief reiterated that he will go to attend the public meeting in Bhainsa, and said that his party was going to approach the courts of justice to conduct his padayatra.

Farmers want MSP for onion declared soon

"FARMERS from Pune and Tamil Nadu, who bring their produce to Yeshwanthpur, are getting a good price as their crop is better. But still, none of us expected the price to be this low," said Pawadeppa.

"I got just Rs 8 and posted the receipt on social media to alert other farmers to avoid the Yeshwanthpur market as the Gadag and north Karnataka onion crop is not getting a good price there. I have spent more than Rs 25,000 to grow and transport the crop to the market. Many farmers like me are now disappointed," Pawadeppa said.

Karnataka Rajya Raitha Sangha Gadag district president Yallappa Babari said, "We have requested the state government to declare the minimum support price as soon as possible as farmers have suffered losses this whole year due to continuous rain. If no decision is taken, we will take out a protest in the first week of December."

Vizhinjam anti-seaport protest takes a violent turn

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @T'Puram

At least 10 police personnel were injured when the anti-seaport project agitators attacked the Vizhinjam police station on Sunday demanding the release of five of its members detained in connection with Saturday's violence.

Earlier in the day, the state government hardened its stand against the protestors and registered cases against Latin Church priests, including metropolitan archbishop Thomas J Netto. Netto is named the first accused in a case related to conspiracy and instigating violence.

Local sources said police arrested one Shelton for allegedly being part of the violence on Saturday. Later, when four others from the agitation committee went to the police station to release him, they were also arrested. The police said they were also part of the mob that unleashed violence. As the news spread, hundreds of men and women from nearby fishing hamlets surrounded the station demanding their release. They damaged two police vehicles and injured several personnel, before laying a seige to the station.

The agitators blocked police reinforcements from reaching the place for hours. They even prevented the ambulances that came to shift the injured cops to hospitals.

One of 3 elusive tiger cubs found dead in Nagarahole

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Mysuru

One of the three cubs of the tigress 'Nayanji Katte Female' was found dead at Taraka forest area coming under Nagarahole Tiger Reserve on Sunday.

The forest staff, who were involved in a combing operation to track the cubs, found the carcass of the male cub at Taraka forest area at Dommanakatte Beat coming under Antarasathe wildlife range.

The cub had injury marks on its neck, shoulder and fracture in his front leg. The foresters suspected that the cub was killed in a fight with a dominant male in the area. After collecting the organ samples for testing, the carcass was burnt as per the rules.

Nagarahole director Harshakumar said they will continue the combing operation to track the remaining cubs. After the tigress was found dead on November 12 after getting caught in the snare laid to trap wild boars, the foresters had launched a combing operation to track the movement of its three cubs in the Antharasanthe forest range near Taraka Dam. The foresters had installed 30 camera traps and forest staff are taking out patrolling to monitor their movement.

IMRAN'S TACTICAL TURN AS PAKISTAN GETS NEW ARMY CHIEF

Former Pakistan prime minister Imran Khan made a virtue of necessity when he announced the truncation of his party's long march to Islamabad, saying he wanted to prevent chaos, anarchy and political instability in the country. The march was essentially meant to poke the establishment (read Army) that had opened the door for a new government after withdrawing support to him over seven months ago when their hybrid governance experiment failed. With Prime Minister Shehbaz Sharif announcing Lt Gen Asim Munir as the new Army chief to replace incumbent Gen Bajwa, the latter was no longer the point of friction, and Imran had no reason to continue his agitation. It also confirmed the back-channel talks Imran had before Gen Munir's appointment was finalised. Imran first clamoured for selection on merit to lobby for his favourite Lt Gen Faiz Hameed, but when he realised he was getting nowhere, he changed tack and hammered away on seniority as the yardstick. The government jumped at the latter idea as Gen Munir was the senior most in the pecking order. The wily Sharif—the exiled Nawaz that is—won that round. Shehbaz had gone all the way to London to seek brother Nawaz's counsel. Imran then got his rubber stamp President Arif Alvi to fly to Lahore from Islamabad, to publicly establish that he was being consulted before the head of the state signed off on the file.

The former cricketer's second announcement that lawmakers of his party in all provincial assemblies would quit en masse to force snap polls was another jumla. Yet, it could end up giving the Sharifs a window of opportunity to take back control of their Punjab turf wrested by Imran's hybrid government.

From India's perspective, a seasoned Sharif government is any day better than Imran at the helm. As for Gen Munir, he is known as a gutsy officer whose dossier on the corrupt practices of Imran's wife, Bushra, led to his abrupt transfer when he was ISI chief. While analysts claim he would not disturb the ceasefire along the Line of Control and possibly pursue Gen Bajwa's geo-economic policy, India would have a wary eye on his next steps, as he was heading Pakistan's deep state when the Pulwama attack happened. Gen Munir would arguably be the most watched person in the subcontinent when he takes charge this week and starts building his legacy.

CHALLENGES IN CASTING THE TAX NET WIDER

Widening India's tax base has been a big challenge for the government, present and past alike. Ahead of every budget, this becomes a key deliberation as finance ministry officials sit down and decide on the budget proposals. Most experts would suggest the usual measures like lowering tax rates, removing all exemptions, technology-enabled monitoring, etc., to expand the tax base. However, in the long term, these measures have limited utility. The problem lies in India's low per capita income that keeps a large part of India's population out of the income tax net.

India's total tax (including those collected by states) to GDP ratio has been around 17% for over a decade compared to the average tax-to-GDP ratio of 33% in OECD countries. The contribution of direct taxes (individual and corporate income taxes) in total tax collected in the country is just about 33%, which means two-thirds of the total taxes are collected through taxes on consumption. Now, consider the number of taxpayers in India. Finance Minister Nirmala Sitharaman in March this year had informed Parliament that there were 8.22 crore taxpayers in the country in the assessment year 2020–21. Those 8.22 crore also include those who might have only filed returns but not paid any taxes.

That is a minuscule number of taxpayers in a country with a population of 1.4 billion. This issue gets debated over and over on various platforms, with many alluding to massive tax evasions as the reason for such a low number of taxpayers in the country. While there could be some evasions, the demographic realities of India might paint a different picture. In a country with over 900 million people in the working age category, the labour force participation is just around 500 million or even lower. Recent studies have shown that only 10% of those working earn more than ₹25,000 a month. With the income threshold raised to ₹5 lakh per annum for paying taxes, it is very likely that the majority of the labour force would be out of the tax net. While the government has successfully used tools like TDS (tax deducted at source) and non-filers monitoring system to cast the tax net wider, these tools have a limited utility unless the government devises ways to increase India's per capita income, which is a paltry $2,200 (India ranks below 140 countries in per capita income).

QUICK TAKE

PREPARE FOR NEXT VIRUS HIT

What after Covid-19? India is updating its research infrastructure to study pathogens that could cause future outbreaks. The WHO is updating the list of active viruses to guide global research. The government will set up laboratories at district levels to support real-time probes of outbreaks. With a long history of infectious diseases, India has accumulated vast knowledge and experience to tackle pandemics. But lessons from the Covid-19 experience suggest that apart from sustained resources, the government must urgently invest in a virus repository with genome data, indigenous diagnostics, linked data systems and integration of private and public sectors for surveillance.

ISSUES THAT SEEK A NATIONAL MANDATE IN 2024

KAPIL SIBAL

Senior lawyer and member of Rajya Sabha

SOUMYADIP SINHA

The themes that will occupy our national discourse as we approach elections to the Lok Sabha in 2024 make for a disturbing trend. The play-out is already being choreographed.

The first is the clamour for a Uniform Civil Code. This is gaining momentum in most of the BJP-ruled states. The chief minister of Uttarakhand has already pledged to introduce it in the state assembly. It was also in the election manifesto of the BJP in the recently concluded Himachal Pradesh assembly election. Now, it is again an electoral promise in the run-up to the Gujarat assembly election. Any discourse on this topic has both an emotive and divisive element. This gives it a communal colour, which in turn has political consequences as we get closer to 2024.

The second is the expression of outrage when a boy from a particular minority community is in a relationship with or marries a Hindu girl. Shri Himanta Biswa Sarma, chief minister of Assam, while recently campaigning in Gujarat, stated that the heinous manner in which Shraddha Walkar was killed is an example of 'Love Jihad' and, if Modi is not re-elected in 2024, perpetrators of 'Love Jihad' would rise in every city of the country.

This statement is an indication of how a particular community is sought to be targeted for garnering the Hindu vote by using a horrific incident of murder and associating it with the mindset of a particular community. To my mind, this reflects the poison that is sought to be spread in the body politic of our country, only to deepen the schism that already seems to have established deep roots in a society which is essentially inclusive. The media, in turn, seeks to increase its TRPs by giving such conversations free play, allowing for prejudice to dominate national conversations.

A recent statement by our home minister while campaigning in Gujarat is a precursor to things that are to come. Referring to the tragedy at Godhra, he proclaimed that the rioters had been taught a lesson, that communal riots took place because the Congress let it become a habit, that such a lesson was taught in 2002 and there have been no communal riots in Gujarat since then. In a way, the home minister endorsed the violence that took place. Those targeted included women, children and others who had no hand in the alleged tragedy that befell the Sabarmati Express at Godhra station. Spouting venom against a minority community comprising about 200 million may well consolidate the Hindu vote but its impact on our democratic polity may ultimately be a matter of regret.

The third thematic trend is to silence all forms of dissent. Academics who oppose atrocities committed against Dalits are referred to as urban naxals. Any fact-finding exercise to get at the truth about alleged acts of violence by the mighty State is seen as an anti-national exercise. The version of the State must be believed. Those who attempt to question it are seen to be enemies of the State. Such persons are prosecuted under the Unlawful Activities (Prevention) Act, 1967. Stringent provisions of UAPA make it difficult for such individuals to be enlarged on bail. The result is that others will be reluctant to question executive excesses and the writ of the State will run unchecked. The courts too are wary in giving relief to those prosecuted under such laws.

The fourth thematic trend seems to be playing out in courts. A public interest lawyer, known to be proximate to the ideology espoused by the BJP, seeks to raise divisive issues in court and has the unstinted support of the government. This often results in judicial orders allowing for the beginning of yet another conversation which helps the ideological cause of the ruling establishment.

One recent example of this is the sudden obsession of the current dispensation with 'freebies', resulting in the Election Commission entering the fray. The Commission, which in an affidavit swore that it was not the appropriate authority to deal with issues of 'freebies', ironically in a somersault took upon itself the responsibility of taking action in the matter. At the same time, the Supreme Court decided to judicially examine the issue. The reason perhaps behind this sudden obsession is that a particular party seems to have gained political mileage by making promises, which others alleged are hurting the economy and making the power sector unsustainable. While the economic argument may well be partially valid, one cannot miss the political intent behind it.

Added to the above are fringe elements who speak of the imminent threat to the dominance of the majority community unless the increase in population of a particular minority is arrested. This, coupled with hate speeches at various public forums and the so-called frequent Dharam Sansads, allows for communal vitriol to take root. The uninformed are likely to buy into this.

The insouciance with which the State machinery deals with such hate speeches only leads one to believe either of two things: that the state police itself believes in such a divisive dialogue or that their silence represents state complicity. The fact that prominent functionaries of the establishment get away with hate speeches indicates that raising the communal pitch is acceptable and may well be part of a broad national strategy of a particular political party.

Without doubt, India has changed. It is no longer the inclusive India we were born in. The dialogues of today are worrisome. If we do not stand up to this trend, our tomorrow will be in danger. Today, it is they who are targeted. Tomorrow, it may be us.

THE AVADHUTA'S ADVICE AND THE ROLLING SEA

RENUKA NARAYANAN

FAITHLINE

For the last few weeks, I found myself watching YouTube videos on deep sea fishing. One showed up randomly on my feed and since it was about the South coast and I missed the sea, I watched it. This led to watching more. It was quite hypnotic at first to look at the vast expanse of waves and the steady movements of the fishermen, culminating in the excitement of the catch. They threw in over 250 lines of bait and hauled in the 'fruit of the sea'. The fish were simply enormous. They were beautiful in colour, gold, silver and multi-hued; trevally, kingfish, queenfish, grouper, sailfish, horse mackerel.

Fishing has been one of man's respectable occupations since ancient times so obviously I don't consider it otherwise. But after watching a few videos I started noticing a couple of things or three in the close-ups.

One, the bleeding mouths of the caught fish. Two, the futile desperation of their dying flops. Three, the fishermen used live bait like prawns, sardines and scadfish, which the big fish were tempted by and got hooked.

The last was a clear demonstration of the concept of 'Matsya Nyaya', the brutal 'Law of Fish' by which big fish eat little fish. Chanakya, the ancient philosopher and political strategist, being a hardcore realist, saw man as innately depraved. In his view, a strong, secure and tightly administered government was absolutely necessary to prevent society from lapsing into the state of Matsya Nyaya, wherein the strong devoured the weak and big people oppressed little people unchecked by law.

A moral thought intruded next, from the Srimad Bhagavatam. It took me back to our old friend the 'Avadhuta' or self-realised sanyasi who told King Yadu the story of Pingala (Faithline, Pingala of Videha and her stark reality check, October 3, 2022). The Avadhuta told King Yadu that he learnt 24 lessons from as many sources.

Sri Krishna relates the whole story to his good friend and follower Uddhava. This devotee has been by Krishna's side ever since Krishna came to Mathura and killed Kamsa. Now he senses the doom of the Vrishnis and, unbearably, the departure of Krishna from Earth.

He pleads fervently with Krishna to never leave him for he cannot imagine a life without Krishna. But Krishna, who has lived out a hundred and twenty five years, tells Uddhava that he must go, while Uddhava must stay for his allotted span to instruct mankind on how to cope with life. He imparts to him the observations of the Avadhuta, which seem so contemporary and relevant even today.

Among the Avadhuta's lessons are keen observations about the five senses which exist and operate in a living being. Consider the person who is driven by bodily needs, he says. He or she needs tasty food, clean drinking water, and perhaps a few other liquids. He wants someone to hold and be held by, good music to please his ears and sweet scents for his nose to enjoy. His eyes want beautiful things to look at.

FILE PIC

> They threw in over 250 lines of bait and hauled in the 'fruit of the sea'. The fish were simply enormous. They were beautiful in colour, gold, silver and multi-hued; trevally, kingfish, queenfish, grouper, sailfish, horse mackerel

A human being is impelled to satisfy all these cravings. The Bhagavatam compares this condition to that of a man with many wives and concubines, who must please them all.

Indeed, as we all know, consumer culture, and the goods and service sectors, are driven by the demand to cater to the five senses. In today's terms, if you're an MBA, for instance, you have to spend the next thirty or forty years of your life selling tyres, tea, shirts or chocolates. You may get to play golf, join a wine club and go hot-air ballooning in Cappadocia if that's what floats your boat but you also burn yourself up like camphor to survive and make it in a brutally competitive world, as is the case with other professions.

Just look at the lessons contained in the natural world, says the Avadhuta. The fish is tempted by its sense of taste and is caught and killed when it takes the bait. The moth is betrayed by its sense of sight. It cannot resist a bright light, which kills it. When just a single sense leads to doom, what can one say about the plight of a human being who is beset with the demands of all five senses and cannot satisfy all of them easily? Nor can he resist them unless his mind is the boss, not his body.

The cure, says our culture, is to cultivate some inner detachment, a 'me space' that tries not to take it too hard if met with disappointment.

Here we must marvel at the sophistication of Indian thought. Kama, artha and moksha, that is, love, livelihood and liberation from more births, when driven by dharma or a moral code, are proper aspirations in our culture.

The family has great value as a social unit. But the very same culture also upholds detachment and 'alone time' as worthwhile paths to soul satisfaction. Are we to pursue the soul path only after 60 when our aspirations are more or less fulfilled? No, says our culture.

We must manage both at the same time right through: do our duty, lead the life, but be aware and protect our heart; don't give in to bitterness and anger because we didn't get everything we wanted because, in the end, it doesn't matter.

But how is this fine balance achieved? This is where the big guns boom. The Bhagavad Gita—Krishnam vande jagadgurum (Hail Lord Krishna, the world's Teacher)—says that the secret is nishkama karma or desireless action. Let's do what we have to do but not let a disappointing result crush us. We are more than that.

Seen that way, the videos on deep sea fishing seem to resonate with this teaching. The fishermen go out to sea every day and keep on at it, braving the elements. A bad catch doesn't deter them from sailing out anyway.

We could probably add them to the Avadhuta's list, couldn't we?

Family holds keys

Apropos of Gandhis need contrarians, not conformists (Nov 27). The Congress party became the family business of the Nehru family. No one who challenges the dynasty can survive in the party. Manmohan Singh may have been the prime minister from 2004 to 2014 but who was holding the power button? Of course, Sonia Gandhi. The business may now be running in losses but it is still the family business.

Tharoor's streak

Prabhu Chawla has aptly analysed the unchanging attitude of the Congress. Tharoor decided to enhance the party's credibility by contesting. The dynasty could not stomach his independent streak and tried to sideline him. But this crafty leader from Kerala appears determined to fight the injustice and has started making moves. What the future holds is worth looking forward to.

Setting an example

I strongly agree with PM Modi that citizens should do their duty first. But whether the elected representatives are doing their duties efficiently after availing all the luxury facilities on taxpayers' money is a big question mark. If they did, there wouldn't be poverty, poor facilities at hospitals, etc. Leaders must set a good example for citizens.

Vizhinjam clash

Apropos of Protesters, local people clash at Vizhinjam port site (Nov 27). The protesters' behaviour is not tolerable. Harming local people is much more than lighting the fire. We understand the problem of the fishermen but committing such activities is not correct. The local residents are being affected. The government has to take action.

Usha for president

Apropos of Usha to contest for IOA president's post (Nov 27). She's the most suitable candidate due to her impeccable record. Moreover, she's also a Rajya Sabha MP nominated by the BJP and appears to be a favourite of several sports bodies. She should be elected without opposition.

Murder as a product

Apropos of Marketing murder: On the surreal 'serial' killers (Nov 27). It is true that cinema and serials do influence society. Portrayal of serial killing, sadistic crimes and sexual abuse are lapped up by society. But there's nothing like law proving to be an effective deterrent by dealing with criminals most stringently.

T'gana weaver designed G20 logo, says PM

Y Hariprasad Garu from Ranjana Sircilla district sent a letter to PM with hand-woven logo that was later selected

RAJESH KUMAR THAKUR
@ New Delhi

PRIME Minister Narendra Modi in his monthly radio programme Mann Ki Baat revealed on Sunday that the G-20 logo was chosen through a public contest and that a weaver named Yeldhi Hariprasad Garu from Ranjana Sircilla district of Telangana has designed it.

The PM said: "He sent me this G-20 logo woven with his own hands. I was surprised to see this wonderful gift. He is such an expert in his art that he attracts everyone's attention."

The PM added that Garu has inherited wonderful talent of weaving from his father and now he is doing it with full passion. The PM said that he was pleasingly surprised when he received the gift from Garu as it showed that a person living a remote place in India was so aware of international happenings like the G20 summit.

"When I received this gift from Hariprasad Garu, another thought came to my mind. I was very happy to see how connected even a person sitting in a remote district of Telangana could feel with a summit like G-20," he said.

"The Indian logo of G20 can be sewed, printed, in a stylish way on clothes. I would urge schools, colleges and universities to create opportunities for discussion, debates and competitions related to G-20," the PM said. Talking about India getting ready to assume the presidency of the G20, the PM said the country should focus on global good during its term and asserted that it has solutions to the challenges related to peace, unity, environment and sustainable development.

India will officially assume the G20 presidency from the current chair Indonesia on December 1. Noting that assuming G20 presidency is a "big opportunity" for India, Modi said the theme that India has given is 'One Earth, One Family, One Future' which shows its commitment to 'Vasudhaiva Kutumbakam' (world is one family).

"The G20 has a partnership comprising two-thirds of the world's population, three-fourths of world trade, and 85 per cent of world GDP. You can imagine ' India is going to preside over such a big group, such a powerful group, from December 1," he said.

"What a great opportunity has come for India, for every Indian! This becomes even more special because India was awarded this responsibility during 'Azadi Ka Amrit Kaal (75th year of India's Independence')," the PM said.

The presidency of the G-20 has arrived as a big opportunity for India and it has to make full use of this opportunity and focus on global good and welfare of the world. "Whether it is peace or unity, sensitivity towards the environment, or sustainable development, India has solutions to challenges related to these," he said.

The G20 comprises Argentina, Australia, Brazil, Canada, China, France, Germany, India, Indonesia, Italy, Japan, the Republic of Korea, Mexico, Russia, Saudi Arabia, South Africa, Turkey, the UK, the US and the European Union.

RELIANCE TO PROVIDE AEROSPACE SOLUTIONS WITH DRDO

Mukesh Ambani's technology company Jio Platforms has quietly entered into teaming agreements with several aerospace laboratories of the state-owned Defence Research and Development Organisation, and also joined hands with the public sector Bharat Electronics Ltd and Hindustan Aeronautics Ltd for offering indigenously-developed software tools for designing, operating and maintaining aerospace and defence products. Jio Platforms will be India's first company which will be offering such indigenous software tools. This market in India has so far been dominated by French and US defence companies. Sources said Jio Platforms plans to establish a dedicated aerospace engineering centre in Bengaluru in the next two years and recruit over one thousand aerospace engineers for research activities. Jio Platforms' parent company Reliance Industries Ltd had earlier acquired an 83 per cent stake in Bangalore-based software simulation tools company SankhyaSutra Labs with an investment of $30.85 million. SankhyaSutra Labs has developed Computational Fluid Dynamics-based simulation software for the indigenous manufacturing of various hardware components for aerospace systems. This technology will help Indian companies to develop components, and sub-assembly of western and Russian weapons and platforms. With its new tieups, Jio Platforms will now provide design solutions for fighters, stealth drones, aero-jet engines, etc.

Direct Action

RAHUL PLANS BHARAT JODO-2 FROM GUJ TO ARUNACHAL

Gandhi's political guru Gopal Krishna Gokhale gave him a piece of critical advice when the Mahatma returned from South Africa to take a plunge into India's freedom movement. He asked Gandhi to travel across India, meet the common people and listen to them to understand the country. Gandhi followed the advice and the rest is history. Rahul Gandhi seems to have taken this leaf out of the Mahatma's playbook. Sources say he plans to follow up the first leg of the Kanyakumari-to-Kashmir Bharat Jodo Yatra with another one from Gujarat to Arunachal Pradesh — a Porbandar to Parshuram Kund yatra. The unexpected success of the yatra with an overwhelming response across the south and central India has removed whatever doubts and dilemmas he had over the direct contact plan, according to sources. Rahul has repeatedly complained that the mainstream media was not raising issues concerning common people and ignoring the voice of opposition. Sources say the first leg of the yatra has convinced him that direct contact with the people by walking through the villages, towns and cities was more effective than reaching out to them through the media. He feels that the vast swathes of the country comprising Gujarat, UP, Chhattisgarh, Odisha, Jharkhand, Bihar, West Bengal, Assam, all the way to Arunachal need to be covered too. Sources say there is no doubt over Bharat Jodo-2, only the dates are to be finalised. It can start anytime after the first leg ends in February next year.

Delhi Liquor Scam

CBI CHARGESHEETS SMALL FISH, SPARES POLICYMAKERS

After hundreds of raids and months of investigation and interrogation into the Delhi excise policy which was allegedly framed to favour a few, the CBI has failed to chargesheet any of the policymakers. The chargesheet filed by the agency names two junior officers of the Delhi government. They were involved only in the implementation of the policy after it was notified. They had no role in the drafting of the policy. The new excise policy was drafted by an empowered group of ministers comprising Excise Minister Manish Sisodia and his Cabinet colleagues, Satyendra Jain and Kailash Gehlot. The AAP government was accused of bringing in a policy to favour a handful of friendly businessmen. The Lieutenant Governor of Delhi had raised questions about the process of formulating the policy and its content. The BJP and its ministers in the Union government flagged lacunae in the policy. But the CBI's chargesheet indicates that it has focussed only on the implementation side of the policy and not on the process of its formulation, which was in the eye of the storm. Sources said that the case made out against the junior officers in the chargesheet is weak, to say the least, and it would collapse like a house of cards in the first hearing itself as they have merely implemented a policy notified by the government. The CBI chargesheet does not provide answers to many questions; it has instead raised more questions.

NARENDRA SETHI @ Dehradun

Minister of Tourism and Culture, Satpal Maharaj said, "The journey between Kedarnath and Badrinath will become even easier in the coming days. Sleeper class model of Vande Bharat may run before '24 poll

RAJESH KUMAR THAKUR
@ New Delhi

Vande Bharat trains have covered a cumulative distance of more than 18 lakh route kms since it started in 2019 till date

IN a sequel to the chair-car version of Vande Bharat (VB) trains, the Railway Ministry is working to rollout the latest sleeper class version by January 2024, prior to the announcement of parliamentary elections, a senior official of the railway ministry said. A design of this train has already been prepared and will soon get approvals for test and subsequent serial production, he added.

The Vande Bharat trains are expected to be a big upgrade from the premium Rajdhani Express service. The sleeper class-version of these trains will be run on the routes to cover overnight rail journey like New Delhi-Patna, New Delhi-Lucknow and others.

India's first and the second semi-high speed Vande Bharat trains have covered a cumulative distance of more than 18 lakh route kms since it started in 2019 till date. The total distance- covered by these two VB trains, is almost equivalent to orbiting the earth 42 times! In next few years, these trains will be able to cover the distances worth orbiting the Earth and the Moon together at least 100 times.

After four years of intensive work and planning, country's first and the second Vande Bharat trains as electric multiple units at semi-high speed, were flagged off by Prime Minister Narendra Modi in 2019 on the New Delhi-Varanasi and New Delhi-Katra in J&K routes.

The Vande Bharat trains are expected to be a big upgrade from the premium Rajdhani Express service. The sleeper class version of these trains will be run on the routes that cover overnight rail journey like New Delhi-Patna, New Delhi-Lucknow and other similar routes.

The first VB train was flagged on the New Delhi-Varanasi route and the second one was on New Dehi-Katra route to provide fast rail transportation to these pilgrim cities.

The railway ministry is also working towards exporting these trains by 2026 to cover the international markets of South Africa and European countries and rolling out more than 100 VB trains and running them for at least one lakh route kms.

Sources also said that the announcement for rolling out the second lot of 350-400 new Vande Bharat is expected to be part of the next Union Budget 2023-24.

Unesco honours Qutb Shahi era baolis' restoration

PARVEZ SULTAN @ New Delhi

UNESCO has recognised the conservation of six baolis (step wells) located inside the Qutb Shahi Heritage Park at Golconda with an Award of Distinction. 'Heroic restoration' of Chhatrapati Shivaji Maharaj Vastu Sangrahalaya Museum in Mumbai, which is part the Victorian Gothic and Art Deco Ensembles of Mumbai World Heritage property, has also been accorded Award of Excellence in this year's Unesco Asia-Pacific Awards for Cultural Heritage Conservation. The announcements were made on Saturday.

Lauding the restoration efforts, the Unseco citation stated that restoration of the stepwells of Golconda had realised an ambitious, long-term vision for renewing the extensive complex of architectural and social spaces within the sixteenth-century Qutb Shahi necropolis. "In recovering the stepwells and associated aqueducts from a state of neglect and partial ruins, the project has revived the function of the historic waterworks of irrigating the surrounding orchards and forests, thus enabling the holistic restoration of the historic landscape," it read.

The Aga Khan Trust for Culture (AKTC) has been working on conservation of tombs and other edifices in the complex for years with Tata Trusts. The baolis, which have been fully restored, are Badi, Hamam, Bagh, Western, Idgah and Eastern.

Elated by the development, Ratish Nanda, chief executive officer (CEO), AKTC said, "The stepwells in the Qutb Shahi necropolis of Golconda were in a state of collapse with some having been filled-in. Reconstruction of collapsed portions was necessary to ensure that the significance and grandeur of these monuments was restored. Conservation of these is part of a wider conservation effort on 100 or more monuments within the necropolis. It's a delight that Unesco has recognised the project for this honour."

Highlighting restoration of the museum building in Mumbai, Unesco jury noted that executed to the highest level of technical excellence, the project sets a standard for the conservation of World Heritage monuments in India and beyond.

Alarming rise in global population of men with enlarged prostate: Lancet

KAVITA BAJELI-DATT @ New Delhi

THERE has been an alarming hike in benign prostatic hyperplasia cases worldwide, especially in the low and middle-income groups in the last ten years, according to the latest findings of a study published in the Lancet.

The study found that within South Asia, the increase in benign prostatic hyperplasia (BPH) — also called prostate gland enlargement — a common condition as men get older, has been maximum in Bangladesh (129 per cent) followed by India (90.9 per cent).

According to the Global Burden of Diseases, Injuries and Risk Factors Study (GBD) 2019, funded by the Bill and Melinda Gates Foundation, the cases of people with such conditions jumped to 94 million in 2019 from 51.1 million in 2000, a hike of around 70 per cent.

Prostate gland enlargement can cause several urinary problems in men, such as blocking the flow of urine out of the bladder. It can also cause bladder, urinary tract or kidney problems. The study spans 21 regions and 204 countries and territories from 2000 to 2019. "As more people are living longer worldwide, the absolute burden of benign prostatic hyperplasia is expected to continue to rise in the coming years, highlighting the importance of monitoring and planning for future health system strain," said the study.

'Conditions jumped to 94 million in 2019'

According to the Global Burden of Diseases, Injuries and Risk Factors Study (GBD) 2019, funded by the Bill and Melinda Gates Foundation, the cases of people with such conditions jumped to 94 million in 2019 from 51.1 million in 2000, a hike of around 70 per cent.

When the numbers are broken down into regions, the highest growth has been witnessed in tropical Latin America (an increase of 98.4 per cent) followed by east (97.5 per cent) and South Asia (91.4 per cent).

Explaining the findings and the methodology followed, the report said that GBD is the largest and most comprehensive scientific effort to produce estimates of health loss due to 369 diseases and injuries.

"Benign prostatic hyperplasia is a common urological disease among older men. The age-specific prevalence of benign hyperplasia has been estimated from autopsy studies to be 8% in the fourth decade of life, 50% in the sixth decade of life, and 80% in the ninth decade of life," said the study.

The study also found that while the number of cases has increased, age standardisation has remained static.

"Our study suggests a close and nuanced link between the benign prostatic hyperplasia burden and national sociodemographic status and the potential for intervention to make an impact," said the study

How scrapped project can hurt BJP

Par-Tapi Narmada Link project upsets tribals, may affect party's prospects on many seats

DILIP SINGH KSHATRIYA
@ Navsari (S. Gujarat)

A centre of tribal politics in Gujarat, Vansda is about 340 km from Ahmedabad. Gujarat Bharatiya Janata Party chief CR Patil has 'adopted' the Vansda assembly; little doubt, then, the BJP is trying its best to capture the seat.

Pradeep Garasia, president of the Samast Adivasi Samaj Sansthan,' is fighting for the rights of tribal community for years. "Not only Vansda, look at the condition of tribals across Gujarat and India. In the name of development, just any project is announced for the area without asking the tribal communities," says Garasia.

"If you look at Vansda, Tapi, Navasari, Dang, and the entire tribal belt of south Gujarat, you will understand what is wrong with the government approach. First, the government took up the project of displacing the people of 69 villages in the name of Par-Tapi river link. When tribal opposition grew against it, the government decided to drop it," says Garasia.

Eventually, Chief Minister Bhupendra Patel announced in May that the project was being scrapped, but how much damage the entire decision-making has caused would be clear only after the Assembly results.

"The project would have damaged our land, rivers and the environment. What kind of development was it?" asks Garasia.

Anant Patel, a Congress leader, has stood up for the tribals regardless of whether his party opposes the project or not. Patel, 45, is an MLA from Vansda constituency and has been at the forefront of protests in Navsari and Valsad districts against land acquisition for highway projects. Patel heads the Gujarat Congress' Adivasi (tribal) Cell.

Nikunj Patel, a social worker and computer engineer, says the protest against the river linking project was against the entire tribal community. "I want to ask the government that if development is to go on, then why do you choose tribal land?" he says.

This time BJP has given the ticket to Piyush Patel, a former government officer. "During his stint, he never listened to us. So, what will he do if he becomes MLA?" asks Nikunj.

There are 141 villages in the Vansda assembly constituency, which is considered a stronghold of the Congress. Over 90% of the population in Vansda taluka is tribal. Political observers say the river-linking project is going to cost heavily for BJP, not only in Vansda or Dang but in many tribal belt which stretches from Ambaji in the north to Umergam in the Valsad district, which has 27 reserved seats.

In 2017, Congress won 15 of them while BJP won eight.

The project that failed to take off

The Par-Tapi Narmada river link project proposed to transfer water from surplus regions of Western Ghats to Saurashtra and Kutch. Tribal leaders say the project will displace people from 61 villages.

THE PROJECT

- To link 3 rivers – the Par originates from Nashik in Maharashtra and flows through Valsad
- The Tapi is from Satpura, which flows through Maharashtra and Surat in Gujarat
- Narmada originates from MP and flows through Maharashtra and Bharuch and
- Narmada districts of Gujarat.

SCRAPPED

- The anti-project movement is backed by Samast Adivasi Samaj, Adivasi Samanvay Manch, Adivasi Ekta Parishad and Congress MLA Navsari, Anant Patel.

March 3, 2022 Party leaders meet CM Bhupendra Patel. Govt says will make representations to the Centre.

AAP's freebie promise comes under locals' scrutiny in Gujarat polls

AMIT MUKHERJEE
@ Rajkot/Ahmedabad/Surat

WITH AAP looking to cater to the South Gujarat demography of diamond and embroidery merchants, it has been subject to sharp criticism from locals as well. Looking to replicate Punjab and Delhi model in the state, the party has announced 300 units of free electricity every month, Rs 3,000 for the unemployed and Rs 1,000 for every adult woman per month, 80 per cent quota for local youth in private sector jobs, Rs 40 per day for the upkeep of each cow and revert to the old pension scheme.

"Gujaratis have never run after freebies, everything comes from the tax we pay," said Bhargav Sohagia, a resident of Varachha and an entrepreneur in the hospitality sector. Refusing to comment on who has an advantage between Alpesh Kathiriya, the AAP candidate and Kishorbhai Kanani of BJP, he said, "It's about who is able to gain the trust of the public – I am sure diamond merchants recognise their jewels well." While there is a perception of AAP's growing popularity in the state, many Gujaratis are concerned about the possible slowing down of progress and infrastructure amidst AAP's plan to give away freebies in a bid to achieve their political goals.

"Gujarat residents have always been ahead of the curve. Better ports, world class infrastructure and services that boosts businesses and jobs," said Anamoy Mitra, partner in an aviation and logistic firm. Bhavesh Patel who is in weaving business added, "In fact, we do not rely on the government sometimes and are even ready to pay for facilities that boost business."

Patole walks with Rahul, earns 'A+ grade'

Maharashtra Congress president Nana Patole was on a sticky wicket after change in guard of national Congress president, but Patole strengthened his position by walking with Rahul Gandhi in Bharat Jodo Yatra. Patole is the only senior Congress leader who walked with Rahul Gandhi for more than 370 kilometres in Maharashtra. Though the 59-year-old Patole could not match Rahul's speed, but he left an impression on Rahul for his work for the Yatra. Rahul Gandhi was so impressed with his planning and arrangement for Bharat Jodo Yatra in Maharashtra, he gave A+ mark to Maharashtra Congress leaders.

Guests upset as Raut refuses to foot bill

For Bharat Jodo Yatra, all former ministers and senior leaders of Congress have been given specific responsibilities. When the Yatra entered in Wasim -Vidarbha, former energy minister Nitin Raut had to book hotel rooms for Congress dignitaries and guests walking with Rahul Gandhi. Interestingly, in Akola, Raut categorically told the hotel that he will not bear the costs of food and beverage of guests and asked to charge them directly. Many guests were surprised with the half-hearted arrangement and said when Congress was in power, Raut enjoyed all the services but when it came to party service he has shown his true nature.

CM worried over BJP leaders' move

BJP's decision of entrusting senior union ministers to Lok Sabha constituencies held by Shinde camp has raised some eyebrows. In Kalyan Dombivali, Eknath Shinde's son Dr Shrikant Shinde is elected minister but the union ministers have started campaigning in his constituency for BJP for 2024 Lok Sabha elections. Same with Kolhapur, where union minister Jyotirdtya Scindia came for a two-day tour. Shinde has expressed his concerns about BJP's secret plan whether they want to wrestle these constituencies from Shinde camp or poach the sitting members only. multiple plans.

What China's PLA couldn't do, DeMo, GST did: Rahul

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bhopal

MARCHING through the heat and dust of tribal-dominated Malwa-Nimar region of Madhya Pradesh for four days, Rahul Gandhi's Bharat Jodo Yatra arrived in the country's cleanest city Indore on Sunday.

In a scathing attack on the Narendra Modi government, he accused the BJP government of ruining the backbone of employment generation, the MSME, and agricultural sector, through demonetization and flawed GST.

"What the Chinese Army couldn't do to India has been done by demonetization and flawed GST. The disastrous policies have put an end to cash flow of small and medium traders/enterprises and farmers, who were actually the biggest employment generators in the country. This resulted in the end of jobs. Unless the MSME, small and medium traders and farmers aren't revived, India's youth won't get jobs," said the former Congress chief.

Addressing a gathering in Indore's historic Rajwada Palace on Sunday evening, Rahul took on the Modi government over soaring prices of essentials. "Where is this money of rising prices going, it's going into the pockets of not three, but just two big billionaires, through the mechanism called money transfer."

He alleged that the money from the poor person's pockets was rapidly changing pockets and reaching the BJP coffers, which is then put into the pockets of greedy MLAs to pull down elected governments in states. "This is what happened when the government elected by you in MP (in 2018) was pulled down. If that wasn't corruption, then what is corruption?" he asked.

Congratulating the people of Indore for getting the tag of the cleanest city, he said once his party government returned to power in MP, Indore would have India's biggest airport. "Our government will make Indore for India, what Chicago is for the US."

BORDER ROW

Assam lifts travel curbs on Meghalaya

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Guwahati

AS Shillong limps back to normalcy, Assam on Sunday lifted its travel advisory to Meghalaya.

The popular tourists' destination had been on the boil for three days after the incident of firing on the interstate border on Tuesday left six persons, including five Meghalaya villagers, dead. During the protests in Shillong, the miscreants had torched an Assam-registered SUV, partially damaged some others by pelting stones and attacked the police, including women personnel. An inspector of Customs and Central Excise, who was in the hill station for training, was also attacked.

After observing that Shillong did not witness any untoward incident since Friday, the Assam police on Sunday allowed all modes of vehicles to travel to Shillong and other areas of Meghalaya much to the relief of people stranded in both states. Police escorts were provided wherever it was needed. There was no restriction on the movement of vehicles in Meghalaya.

TMC man attacked days after killing of another leader in Bengal district

PRANAB MANDAL @ Kolkata

THREE days after a Trinamool Congress leader was gunned down at Naoda, Murshidabad, another leader of the ruling party, former vice-chairman of Domkol municipality in the same district, and his son were attacked with rods and pistols on Sunday. Pradip Chaki and his son Shiladitya, who were admitted to a state-run hospital with serious injuries, were attacked two hours after a group of 90 odd local residents, beneficiaries of government schemes, staged demonstrations against him for taking cut-money from them.

The attack was said to be a fall out of the party's internal conflict as Chaki, a week ago, had accused Domkol MLA Jafikul Islam of his own party of hatching conspiracy against him. Islam, however, refuted the allegation.

"According to a statement given by Chaki, a group of 20 men armed with iron rods and pistols attacked him. He received injuries on his head and chest. However, no bullet was fired in the attack," said a police officer. "Chaki identified some of the attackers and a case of attempt to murder has been registered with Domkol police station," he added. Police, however, are yet to ascertain whether the demonstrations by local residents had any role behind the attack.

Cut-money issue started embarrassing the ruling party after the 2019 Lok Sabha elections, in which the BJP made deep inroads in the state by bagging 18 Lok Sabha seats out of 42. In several districts across the state beneficiaries demonstrated in front of the satraps of the ruling party accusing them of collecting commission or cut-money in exchange of enrolling themselves in the list of beneficiaries of the government's schemes. At many places, TMC leaders had to refund the money they had collected.

"Intra-party feud ahead of the panchayat polls scheduled to be held next year has caused massive embarrassment in the organisation," said a TMC leader.

Pandit staff stir in J&K enters 200th day

FAYAZ WANI @ Srinagar

THE protest by Kashmiri Pandit employees recruited under PM's job package entered 200th day on Sunday with the striking employees demanding relocation to Jammu citing security concerns in the Valley in view of continued targeted killings by militants.

Rubon Saproo president All Migrant Displaced Employees Association Kashmir said that the employees would continue their stir till their one point demand ie., relocation to Jammu is not agreed upon by the government. He said in view of the continued targeted attacks by militants on Pandits and other minority community members in the Valley, there is fear among the Pandit employees and they don't want to serve in the Valley by risking their lives.

About 5,000 Pandit employees recruited under PM's job package since 2010 and posted in Valley have been on strike and not attending their official duties since May 12.

INDIA'S 1ST NIGHT SKY SANCTUARY TO COME UP IN LADAKH SOON

RAJESH KUMAR THAKUR @ New Delhi

INDIA'S first-ever Night Sky Sanctuary, being set up by CSIR under Union Ministry of Science & Technology, in Ladakh's Hanle will be completed in over a month's time.

In a unique and first-of-its-kind initiative, the Night Sky Sanctuary is being set up as part of a well-formulated policy to boost to astro-tourism (travel to remote locations for unpolluted views of the cosmos) in the region.

"It is being developed to attract tourists from across the world over the picturesque Ladakh", said Union minister for Science and Technology Dr Jitendra Singh after meeting with Lieutenant governor of Ladakh R K Mathur.

The minister said that Hanle has been chosen for the project as it located in Ladakh's cold desert region; it is away from any form of human disturbance and has clear sky and dry weather conditions that exist throughout the year.

According to an official source, the Dark Sky Reserve is coming up as a part of Changthang Wildlife Sanctuary, one of the world's highest-located sites for an optical, infra-red and gamma-ray telescopes. "This is being set up at a height of 4,500 meters and will help in studying stars, galaxies", said an official. This would be the world's 15th certified Night Sky Sanctuary after Kalahari Heritage Park in South Africa, Great Barrier Island in New Zealand, the Black Gap Wildlife in the US Black Gap Wildlife Management Area in the US, Boundary Waters Canoe Area Wilderness (US), Cosmic Campground (US), Devils River State Natural Area-Del Norte Unit and Katahdin Woods and Waters National Monument (US).

The Night Sky Sanctuary is a public or private land that has an exceptional; or distinguished quality of location for starry nights and a nocturnal environment that is protected for its scientific, natural or educational value, its cultural heritage and public enjoyment.

A tripartite MoU has been signed recently among the UT Ladakh Autonomous Hill Development Council, the Indian Institute of Astrophysics and UT Administration for setting up the Night Sky Sanctuary.

Shinde faction hits back at Uddhav, threatens to reveal 'khokhe in fridge'

SUDHIR SURYAWANSHI @ Mumbai

RESPONDING to 'khokhe sarkar' remark, Maharashtra's Eknath Shinde-led Shiv Sena faction has threatened Uddhav Thackeray with revealing all details about 'khokhe' in the fridge box and where it has gone.

Opposition, particularly Uddhav Thackeray factions have cornered the Shinde camp over Khokhe Sarkar's jibe. Khokhe means immoral money. It was alleged that BJP paid ₹50 crore to each of Eknath Shinde's 41 MLAs who overthrew Uddhav Thackeray's government. This operation lotus has been referred to as 'khokhe, and the incumbent Shinde-Fadnavis government as a 'khokhe sarkar.'

Uddhav Thackeray, addressing the public rally in Vidarbha, said that the Shinde-Fadnavis government is infamous as "khokhe sarkar." He said, "Even Bachchu Kadu , an independent MLA, said that at weddings and social gatherings, people talk about the khokhe joke, and that this is inappropriate, humiliating, and damaging to the image he has carved over the last several years. Maharashtra Chief Minister Eknath Shinde said there is a limit to ridiculing anyone. He asserted that they will no longer tolerate such low level and damaging remarks against their government.

"We will also probe where the khokhe went through the fridge box? We will reveal all the details about it. Has the boxes from the container gone through the fridge boxes? The entire state of Maharashtra knows who can take these boxes and is capable of doing so. One day, all things will come into the limelight," Shinde warned. The Shinde camp claimed that Uddhav Thackeray used to take and transport money (Kokhe) through refrigerator boxes at secure locations. Shinde camp MLA Deepak Kesarkar alleged that one day they will also reveal who has taken money through the fridge box. "There is a limit to lying about Khokhe? We have not taken a single penny from anyone. Uddhav Thackeray has lost his government due to his own fault; therefore, he has been making such baseless allegations against us," Kesarkar said. Earlier, the Shinde camp also alleged that if anyone calls them khokhe sarkar, then they may file defamation cases against them.

Ukraine cripples under persistent snowfall & heavy strikes by Russia

Kyiv hopes the shellings will dwindle with harsh weather forecast in the coming days

KHERSON

SHELLING by Russian forces struck several areas in eastern and southern Ukraine overnight as utility crews continued a scramble to restore power, water and heating following widespread strikes in recent weeks, officials said on Sunday.

With persistent snowfall blanketing the capital Kyiv on Sunday, analysts predicted that wintry weather—bringing with it frozen terrain and grueling fighting conditions—could have an increasing impact on the direction of the conflict that has raged since Russian forces invaded Ukraine more than nine months ago.

But for the moment, both sides were bogged down by heavy rain and muddy battlefield conditions in some areas, experts said.

After a blistering barrage of Russian artillery strikes on at least two occasions over the past two weeks, infrastructure teams in Ukraine were fanning out in around-the-clock deployments to restore key basic services as many Ukrainians dealt with only a few hours of electricity per day—if any.

A Ukrainian serviceman take a rest on the frontline at an undisclosed location in the Donetsk region in Ukraine | AP

Ukrenergo, the state power grid operator, said on Sunday that electricity producers are now supplying about 80% of demand. That's an improvement from Saturday's 75%, the company says.

The Institute for the Study of War (ISW), a think tank that has been closely monitoring developments in Ukraine, said reporting from both sides indicated that heavy rain and mud have had an impact—but wider freezing expected along the front lines in coming days could play a role.

"It is unclear if either side is actively planning or preparing to resume major offensive or counter-offensive operations at that time, but the meteorological factors that have been hindering such operations will begin lifting," it said.

ISW said Russian forces were digging in further east of Kherson, from which they were expelled by Ukrainian forces more than two weeks ago, and continued "routine artillery fire" across the Dnipro River.

In Donetsk, five people were killed in shelling over the past day, as per governor Pavlo Kyrylenko. Overnight shelling was reported by regional leaders in Zaporizhzhia and Dnipropetrovsk areas. AP

Kim's 'precious child' makes appearance again

SEOUL

NORTH Korean leader Kim Jong Un's daughter made a public appearance again, this time with more honorific titles as her father's 'most beloved' or 'precious' child. She's only about 10, but her photos are deepening the debate over whether she's being primed as a successor.

On Sunday, the North's official KCNA mentioned her for the second time, saying she and Kim took group photos with scientists, officials in the test-launch of Hwasong-17 ICBM.

KCNA described her as Kim's 'most beloved' or 'precious' child, a more honorific title than her previous description of '(Kim's) beloved' child on its November 19 dispatch. State media-released photos showed the daughter in a long, black coat holding her father's arm as the two posed for a photo.

Some photos showed the pair standing in the middle of a line of uniformed soldiers. Others showed Kim's daughter clapping her hands, exchanging handshakes with a soldier. AP

N. Korea vows to have world's most powerful nuclear force

SEOUL

NORTH Korean leader Kim Jong Un said his country aimed to have the world's most powerful nuclear force as he celebrated the launch of its newest intercontinental ballistic missile at a ceremony with his young daughter, media reported on Sunday.

Kim also handed promotions to more than 100 officials and scientists for their work on the Hwasong-17—dubbed the 'monster missile' by analysts and believed to be capable of reaching the US mainland.

Hailing the new ICBM as "the world's strongest strategic weapon", Kim said North Korean scientists had made a "wonderful leap forward in the development of the technology of mounting nuclear warheads on ballistic missiles", KCNA reported.

The launching vehicle for the new Hwasong-17 ICBM was awarded the title of 'DPRK Hero', a separate KCNA report said. AFP

What can change in capital gains tax rules in Budget

Government is reportedly looking at simplifying tax structure by bringing uniformity in holding periods to decide the nature of capital gains as short or long

DIPAK MONDAL @ New Delhi

THE capital gains tax rules could be changed in the next budget if the buzz around it comes true. It has been reported by media that the finance ministry is looking at changing some of the anomalies in the capital gains tax rules.

The ministry has given hints in the past that it is not happy with a complicated capital gains tax structure and that it needs to be re-looked at. Revenue Secretary Tarun Bajaj has said in public that there is no logic for having different time frames and tax rates for different assets.

TAX UPDATE

Complicated tax structure

Capital gains tax rates vary depending upon type of asset and period of holding. Period of holding decides whether the gains are taxable as long-term capital gains (LTCG) or short-term capital gain (STCG).

For example, any gains made from equities holding them for less than one year is considered short-term capital gains, and is taxed at 15%. But if the capital gain is made from holding in an equity share for more than one year, it is considered long term capital gains, and is taxed at 10%. For any other assets – debt, gold or properties – the holding period has to be over three years for the capital gains to be qualified as long term.

While short-term capital gains from equities is taxed at 15%, the same from debt, gold or any other asset is taxed at income slab rates. Long-term capital gains from non-equity assets are taxed at 20% after indexation. (Indexation is adjusting the cost price for inflation before arriving at the capital gains).

If media reports are to be believed, the government is looking at simplifying the tax structure by bringing uniformity in holding periods to decide the nature of capital gains as short or long.

It can do so by increasing the holding period to three years for equities (like it is in case of other assets) for the capital gains to be considered as long-term. If that happens, you may have to hold your equities and equity mutual funds for a longer period to avail a lower rate of taxation at 10%. The government might also do away with a lower short-term capital gains tax of 15% in equities and bring it at par with other assets.

Need for simplification

Gopal Bohra, partner, direct tax, N.A Shah Associates, says : "Currently there are different holding periods for a particular asset to qualify as long-term capital asset (for example 1 year for listed securities, two years for immovable properties and three years for other assets) and similarly different rates are there for listed securities, unlisted securities, other capital assets, with indexation, without indexation, etc. depending upon long term or short-term capital gain." This creates lots of confusion for taxpayers, therefore, the government should consider simplifying this by bringing parity between different tax rates and holding periods, says Bohra.

The Association of Mutual Funds in India (AMFI) in its budget proposal has pointed out that the minimum holding period for units of debt-oriented mutual funds (listed or unlisted) to qualify as Long-Term Capital Asset is 36 months. However, it says direct investments in listed securities like bonds/debentures, government securities, derivatives, etc. listed on a recognised exchange in India and zero-coupon bonds (listed or unlisted) the holding period to qualify as long-term capital asset is only 12 months.

"The holding period for LTCG for direct investment in listed debt securities and zero-coupon bonds (listed or unlisted) and for investment through debt mutual funds should be harmonised and made uniform," it said in its budget proposal. AMFI has also sought parity in tax treatment with respect to capital gains on withdrawal of investments in ULIPs of life insurance companies and redemption of mutual funds units, so as to bring about a level-playing field between ULIPs and MF schemes.

Though the revenue secretary has in the past stressed on the need for having higher tax on LTCG from equities, it is unlikely that the government may go for a hike in rate given it could dent the equity market sentiments in the country. But investors should be ready for some changes in capital gains tax rule and be prepared for the likely repercussions on their investment decisions.

HOW COMPLEX CAPITAL GAINS TAX STRUCTURE IS

Asset	Holding period (for LTCG)	LTCG tax rate	STCG tax rate
Equity	12 months	10% if LTCG is more than 1 lakh	15%
Listed g-secs, bonds and zero coupon bonds	12 months	20% after indexation	Taxed according to tax slab
Debt Mutual funds and unlisted debts	36 months	20% after indexation	Taxed according to tax slab
Gold	36 months	20% after indexation	Taxed according to tax slab
Real estate	24 months	20% after indexation	Taxed according to tax slab

Note: LTCG: Long-term capital gains; STCG: Short-term capital Gains

MONEY MATTERS

WHAT DOES 2022 SAY ABOUT YOUR MONEY

FINANCIAL ADVICE

RAJAS KELKAR

(The author is editor-in-chief at www.moneyminute.in)

YOUR money is influenced primarily by two 'I's. One is inflation, and another is interest rates. The two are linked to each other and move in tandem. As inflation goes up, interest rates rise too. Your quest is to attempt to beat inflation every year with your investments. As most Indians continue to hold money in the bank and fixed deposits, the year 2022 would be tough to beat inflation. Whenever we have had a surge in inflation, gold prices have soared.

However, in 2022, gold prices have not moved anywhere. They have barely moved in over the past decade compared to the usual trend.

Rising commodity prices and supply shocks drove the stubbornly high consumer price inflation. The war in Ukraine and COVID-19 restrictions in China have slowed global supply chains.

The inflationary trend is strange too

For the first time in history, we may have a full calendar year where consumer price inflation in America is higher than in India. It was a year when interest rates and inflation dominated conversations across financial markets. The strangeness does not end here. The US dollar gained strength against major currencies in the worst year for consumer inflation since 1981. The Indian rupee fell nearly 10% this year against the US dollar. However, it gained strength against the British pound, the Japanese Yen and the Euro.

Foreign portfolio investors are significant drivers of valuation across global financial markets. They pulled out money from everything that looked risky in light of rising interest rates. India was no exception. However, Indian equities showed resilience despite that. Retail investors continue to pour money into equity assets through systematic investing. That is providing a cushion against a sharp slide witnessed in other markets.

If you look at benchmark indices for their 2022 performance across segments, there seems to be an uneasy calm. The NSE Nifty, Nifty Midcap and the Nifty Next 50 have just about hung to levels where they were at the start of the year. That does not mean things have remained calm in the wonderland of investing.

SOURAV ROY

Interest rates, inflation dominate conversations

For the first time in history, we may have a full calendar year where consumer price inflation in America is higher than in India. It was a year when interest rates and inflation dominated conversations across financial markets

The year saw the usual performers underperform. The Nasdaq 100 shed a third of its value so far in 2022. The Nifty IT index in India is down by a fifth. The new-age tech companies, including consumer and fintech, have had a rough ride in 2022. Most companies riding on India's domestic consumption boom for food delivery, financial services on smartphones, e-commerce and logistics have witnessed a loss of investor confidence.

There have been pockets of outperformance. Public sector bank shares have improved on interest income and profit margins due to lower non-performing assets.

The credit growth in the economy surged in 2022 to a level higher than the deposit growth witnessed for a couple of years to 2022. Telecom and capital goods companies saw share prices rally from the lows of the pandemic. However, most of that action could be termed a 'catch-up'.

At the start of 2022, there was a lot of excitement about Bitcoins and other cryptocurrencies. It was touted to be the most disruptive development.

Governments and regulators across nations stalled their march. They saw it as a direct challenge to their authority to issue currency. Many countries decided to launch their versions of digital currency. India's Reserve Bank of India continued to oppose an accessible way for cryptocurrencies. The Indian government decided to tax transactions in the crypto assets or currencies heavily. The value of cryptocurrencies at the start of the year was over USD 2.3 trillion. It is now less than $900 bn, a free fall of two-thirds of the value. The collapse of FTX, a trading platform, exacerbated the slide recently.

The year taught us the importance of diversification. The idea of making fast money by investing in seemingly attractive assets is fraught with too many risks. It is an excellent idea to spread your investment across asset classes. This column can only recommend getting a professional financial advisor like every year.

MONEY-WISE

SMALL CAN BE BIG, BUT TREAD CAUTIOUSLY

FINANCIAL ADVICE

ASHOK KUMAR

Head of LKW-India. He can be reached at ceolotus@hotmail.com

AT a seminar where I was a speaker some years ago, I remember meeting a retired Professor who wished to know if she should invest one-third of her retirement corpus in small-cap funds as they seemed to be yielding maximum returns at that point in time. As a policy I respond to all queries on public forums at only a macro level to minimise any scope of misinterpretation that could lead to an unwanted loss for any investor.

Hence, I told her that returns must be reviewed over longer time frames and not just the last 12 months and also suggested that in terms of Life-Cycle investing, Small Cap funds might be more suited for her daughter who had accompanied her.

The Securities and Exchange Board of India (SEBI) defines small-cap companies as those which are ranked below the 250th rank in terms of market capitalisation. In the Mutual Fund space, Small-Cap Funds, as the name suggests, are those invest a major portion of their investible corpus into equity or equity-related instruments of small-cap companies. As per SEBI's definition, small-cap schemes need to invest at least 65 per cent of their total assets in small-cap companies.

It is important for investors to be cognizant of the fact that small-cap funds carry a higher level of risk than many of the SEBI defined categories. Even the slightest volatility in the market can have a huge impact on the share prices of small-cap companies. Hence, one must tread with caution. Let us now turn the spotlight on some of the small cap funds with relatively smaller AUMs.

Canara Robeco Small Cap Fund was launched in February 2019 and has an AUM of Rs. 4,063 crore. Its 3-year CAGR has been around 37.5% while its one year return has been around 7.7%. This fund invests largely in stocks from the services, financial and capital goods segment.

Quant Small Cap Fund was launched in November 1996 and has an assets under management (AUM) of ₹2,355 crore. The three year CAGR for this fund has been around 49.5% while its one year return has been around 2.9%. This fund invests in stocks across sectors like consumer staples, materials and services.

Sundaram Small Cap Fund has an AUM of ₹2,080 crore and was launched in February 2005. Its three year CAGR is around 26.9% while its one year return is around minus 1.6%. This fund has higher allocations in stocks across sectors such as financial, capital goods and services.

Tata Small Cap Fund has an AUM of ₹2,664 crore and was launched in November 2018. Its three-year CAGR is around 30.7% while its one year return is around 6.4%. This fund has higher allocations in stocks across sectors such as services, financial and capital goods.

Clearly, there are returns to be made in small cap funds, but one must be discerning in its selection and even more importantly, an assessment of the suitability of a small cap fund based on life cycle stage must be undertaken before investing.

RBI, UAE central bank in talks for trade settlement in local currency

MONIKA YADAV @ New Delhi

THE Reserve Bank of India (RBI) has prepared a concept paper for trade settlement in Indian rupee with the country's third-largest trading partner the UAE, according to Sunjay Sudhir, India's Ambassador to the Middile-East country.

He said the UAE's central bank is looking at the matter and discussing it with the RBI officials to operationalise the mechanism. "We had done a meeting in September. We have shared RBI's concept paper with the UAE, which has already designated a nodal person for this. Both countries' central banks are in talks with each other to operationalise trading in local currencies. Main objective of this is to reduce cost of transaction," Sudhir said.

India and the UAE signed free trade agreement (FTA) earlier this year. The FTA got operational from May and as per Srikar Reddy, Joint Secretary at the Department of Commerce, trade between both countries has taken off very well despite global slowdown and inflationary pressure. As per commerce ministry data, in June-October period, India's non-oil exports to the UAE rose 8% to $9.69 billion, while the global non-oil exports fell by 2% during the period. As per Reddy, May data wasn't included as many people were not aware of implementation of the FTA and due to festivities in the UAE. Electrical machinery, gems and jewellery, cereals, inorganic chemicals, and automobiles were the biggest beneficiaries from the FTA during June-October, the ministry analysis showed. The ministry is trying to create awareness about this FTA via involvement of Export Promotion Councils and organising road shows in the UAE, a government official said.

The UAE is also part of GCC (gulf cooperation council) countries and India will begin negotiations with them in the first quarter of FY23. "We see a growing interest in both countries.... From an investment perspective, we see the UAE as a wonderful platform for investment. Investment would be a positive spinoff under this FTA," Sudhir added.

GDP, auto sales data, global cues to guide stock market this week

ARSHAD KHAN @ New Delhi

INDIA'S equity market resumed uptrend after taking a breather for a week.

Supported by the US Federal Reserve's dovish view on future interest rate hikes, strong buying by foreign institutional investors (FII) and a drop in crude oil prices, benchmark indices NSE Nifty and BSE Sensex gained about 1% each last week. Sensex rallied 630.16 points or 1% last week settling at 62,293.64 -- its record closing high. The NSE Nifty too ended at a closing high of 18,512.75.

As per market analysts, macroeconomic data, monthly auto sales and global trends will most likely guide local market this week. Some analysts also feel that benchmarks will continue their rally in coming wees, with Nifty testing the 19,000 mark. Ajit Mishra, VP - Technical Research, Religare Broking, said, "In the coming week, participants will be focusing on key macroeconomic data viz. GDP numbers, core sectors data, manufacturing and services PMI for cues. Apart from domestic data set, the performance of the global indices especially the US will remain on the radar."

"We expect the prevailing trend to continue and expect Nifty to scale 18,700 first and then to a new milestone of 19,000. On the downside, the 18,100 zone would provide the much needed support in case of any dip," added Mishra.

GDP data for the second quarter is scheduled to be announced on Wednesday, while Purchasing Managers' Index (PMI) data for manufacturing sector will be out on Thursday. The growth data will be keenly followed given several rating agencies and banks have lowered India's FY23 gross domestic product (GDP) growth forecast, as they feel higher interest rates and slowing global trade are major headwinds. As per Vinod Nair, Head of Research at Geojit Financial services, however, the tight COVID lockdown in China has negatively impacted the global growth forecast and m the lack of strong fundamental triggers will limit the upside, keeping the market volatile in the short term.

Qatar FIFA WORLD CUP FINALS 2022

Costa Rica's Keysher Fuller rejoices after scoring against Japan on Sunday | AFP

Costa Rica 'still alive' after narrow win

AFP @ Doha

LUIS Fernando Suarez said his Costa Rica team were "still very much alive" at the World Cup after a 1-0 win over Japan on Sunday blew Group E wide open. Japan, who shocked four-time champions Germany 2-1 in their opener in Qatar, would have taken a giant stride towards the last 16 with a win.

Instead they laboured in the first half against a Costa Rica side who were hammered 7-0 by Spain, then defender Keysher Fuller scored in the 81st minute with a deflected strike on the counterattack.

It was Costa Rica's first shot on target at this World Cup and left them, leaders Spain and Japan all on three points. Spain were due to take on Germany later on Sunday in a group widely seen as the toughest at the tournament.

"These players did amazing things today. I will not talk about technique or tactics. Today I need to value and appreciate what they have done to get this win," said Suarez, whose side meets Germany on Thursday.

"We weren't dead yesterday and now we are still very much alive. Nobody can forget about us yet so we can still dream.

"People thought we were already out but we are in this together."

Japan made five changes to the team which stunned Germany as coach Hajime Moriyasu made full use of his 26-man squad.

In temperatures of 32 degrees Celsius (90 degrees Fahrenheit) at Ahmad Bin Ali Stadium, Japan immediately went on the attack and won a corner within 30 seconds.

Suarez made just two changes to the team thumped by Spain, Gerson Torres and 34-year-old centre-back Kendall Waston taking their places in an ageing XI which featured four players from the 2014 World Cup quarter-finals. But Japan's early promise melted in the Doha sun and the first shot at goal — a tame effort which sailed high and wide — did not come until 10 minutes from half-time through Costa Rica's Joel Campbell.

A dreary first half came to a close with "Los Ticos" having had more of the ball but neither side mustering a shot on target.

Moriyasu had seen enough and made a double change at the break, one of them the introduction of Bundesliga-based striker Takuma Asano, who scored the winner against the Germans.

Chinese TV cuts maskless WC scenes

BEIJING: China's state broadcaster is cutting close-up shots of maskless fans at the Qatar World Cup, after early coverage sparked anger at home where street protests have erupted over harsh Covid-19 restrictions. During a live broadcast of Sunday's group game between Japan and Costa Rica, state broadcaster CCTV Sports replaced close-up shots of maskless fans waving flags with images of players, officials or the football stadium, AFP observed.

MATCH POINT

Portugal can confirm qualification with a win while Uruguay will look to involve their forwards. A look at the match between two of football's great aristocrats...

SAFETY FIRST APPROACH

Both sides are notorious for keeping it locked at the back before worrying about creating chances. Chances are there could be a similar strategy, at least in the first half.

LEAO IN?

Portugal have a great new generation of attackers coming through including one of the goalscorers, Rafael Leao. But will they be brave enough to drop Cristiano Ronaldo?

BATTLE IN MIDFIELD

Uruguay's midfield is forward looking who like to have the ball. Portugal's too want to have the ball. It could come down to which of the two sets of midfield are more proactive.

AGEING URUGUAY BACKLINE

Two of Uruguay's back four are 35 (Martin Caceres) and 37 (Diego Godin). While they were okay against South Korea, the nimble-footed Portuguese attackers could take turns in running at them.

Iran fury over Klinsmann's criticism

DOHA: Iran and coach Carlos Queiroz called on Jurgen Klinsmann to resign from a FIFA experts panel on Sunday after the former Germany striker accused the Iranians of gamesmanship in their win over Wales. Klinsmann, a member of FIFA's seven-member technical study group that is analysing the World Cup in Qatar, took aim at Iran's antics following their 2-0 Group B win against Wales on Friday. "This is not by coincidence. This is all purposely. This is part of their culture, that's how they play it," Klinsmann said while working as a studio analyst for the BBC. "They work the referee — you saw the bench always jumping off and working the linesman and the fourth referee on the sideline."

Uruguay relishing underdog status

DOHA: Midfielder Rodrigo Bentancur said on Sunday that twice former winners Uruguay are relishing their status as underdogs ahead of facing Cristiano Ronaldo's Portugal at the World Cup in Qatar. It was a similar scenario four years ago when an Edinson Cavani brace helped the South Americans stun the then-European champions 2-1 in the last 16. "We respect everyone, but the less you know about Uruguay the better it turns out for us," said Tottenham player Bentancur. "It's better not to attract attention, to be humble, respect our opponents, and play all the same. "At the last World Cup we did it really well, starting from behind."

'Expect different Son vs Ghana'

DOHA: South Korea coach Paulo Bento said the team would see a "different" Son Heung-min against Ghana on Monday after the forward got used to his face mask during their opening World Cup match. Portuguese boss Bento said he was not worried about his team's lack of a cutting edge in the first match ahead of their second game in Qatar. "It's completely normal to face some challenges during the first game," he said on Sunday. "As far as Son is concerned, he was recently injured and he was also adapting, trying to feel comfortable with the face mask. First he needed to feel at ease with his teammates and afterwards with the opponents. The second game will be different."

Kramaric fires Croatia to victory

DOHA: Croatia, the 2018 finalists, posted an important 4-1 win against Canada at the Khalifa International Stadium in Doha on Sunday to boost their chances of making it to the last 16 stage. Andrej Kramaric scored a double (36', 70') while Marko Livaja (44') and Lovro Majer (90+4') scored a goal each. Alphonso Davies' second-minute opener was all in vain. Croatia are now top of Group F ahead of second-placed Morocco. Belgium are third.

It's time for Africa! Belgium stunned

Morocco's Zakaria Aboukhlal (C) celebrates after scoring the second goal | AFP

AFP @ Doha

MOROCCO jeopardised Belgium's World Cup hopes as Abdelhamid Sabiri and Zakaria Aboukhlal's late goals secured a surprise 2-0 triumph in Doha on Sunday.

Belgium, third in Russia four years ago, could have qualified for the last 16 with victory but instead produced another insipid display after their fortunate opening win over Canada.

Substitute Sabiri was the hero thanks to a 73rd-minute free-kick which Thibaut Courtois allowed to bounce in at his near post, before Aboukhlal grabbed a second in stoppage time. The tens of thousands of Morocco supporters responded by cheering their team home at a raucous Al Thumama Stadium.

Morocco replace Belgium at the top of Goup F and know they will qualify for the knockout phase for the first time since 1986 if they can avoid defeat against Canada on Thursday.

Belgium, the world's second-ranked side, will have to beat 2018 runners-up Croatia to be sure of going through.

Result: Belgium 0-2 Morocco.

MESSI-STIC TOUCH

Argentina forward steps up in crucial tie to help team stay afloat

STEVE DOUGLAS @ Doha

AS Lionel Messi struggled to hold back his tears, Pablo Aimar let them flow on the bench.

Covering his hands with his face, Argentina's assistant coach, the former player who Messi idolized as a child, was almost hyperventilating with emotion after the goal that kept alive the Albiceleste's World Cup journey. A sobbing Aimar even had to be calmed down by Argentina coach Lionel Scaloni as the final minutes were being played in the team's 2-0 win over Mexico on Saturday. This is how much it means to Argentina — the nation, the fans, the coaching staff and the players.

And, for Scaloni, it's a real concern.

"We should have a little more common sense, and think that it is just a football game," Scaloni said. "The truth is, I don't share the feeling that you are playing something more than a game. And that's what the players feel when they go out on the pitch. "We have to correct it and we will try to continue on the path of them feeling that it is a football game. Otherwise, every time you have to play for a match, for the knockout phase .... it will always be like that." Unfortunately for Scaloni, it seems as if this is one message which is unlikely to get through at this World Cup. One of his favorite sayings over the past week in Qatar and going back further is: "Win or lose, the sun will rise tomorrow."

For Argentines, however, this journey to a third World Cup title has the feeling of life or death. They've gone from the unexpected low of losing to Saudi Arabia in one of the World Cup's biggest upsets to the high of beating Mexico to ignite their hopes of going all the way. Teary-eyed fans embraced each other in the stands at Lusail Stadium. Argentine journalists did the same.

And the players were getting carried away in the locker room after the final whistle, singing songs — one chorus says that Diego Maradona and his mother are cheering on Messi from heaven— while jumping up and down on their seats and banging their fists against the walls. Argentina goalkeeper Emi Martinez stood on a table in the middle of the room, swinging a towel above his head.

So much for the need to "maintain balance," as Scaloni suggested after the game. "People will think I'm crazy but fine, we won, we're celebrating, it happens," Scaloni said.

"But tomorrow we have to prepare the (next) game. It's like when we won the Copa (America) final and we had to think about what came next. The joy doesn't last long."

Calm heads may be needed, though that doesn't seem the Argentina way. Indeed, Messi thought that was his team's problem as Argentina struggled to find a way through Mexico's obdurate defense in the first hour of the match. Messi could be seen imploring his teammates to relax.

"We knew we were going too fast at times and therefore we made mistakes," he said.

Messi said Argentina was anxious in the game against Saudi Arabia, also played in front of tens of thousands of Albiceleste fans in a Lusail Stadium that can hold nearly 89,000. The attendance of 88,966 spectators for the Mexico match was the largest at a World Cup match since 1994.

There will be around half that number in the stadium for the game against Poland. That may prove be a blessing for Argentina. AP

LUSAIL: Lionel Messi played in front of 88,966 spectators on Saturday, the largest attendance at a World Cup match in 28 years. The Lusail Stadium north of Doha, which will stage the final on Dec. 18, hosted the most people at the World Cup since the 1994 final in the United States, according to FIFA. There were 91,194 people at the Rose Bowl in Pasadena, California, to see Brazil beat Italy in that penalty shootout after a 0-0 draw.

After latest milestone, Ronaldo eyes Cup glory

AP @ Doha

ANOTHER game, another personal milestone. For all the turmoil that has surrounded Cristiano Ronaldo ahead of what is likely to be his final World Cup, the Portugal great continues to make his mark. On Thursday he became the first man to score in five World Cups.

Earlier this season he registered the 700th club goal of his career. Not bad for a 37-year-old, who doesn't know where he will be playing beyond Qatar after having his Manchester United contract terminated in the wake of his incendiary interview criticizing manager Erik ten Hag and the club's owners. A win against Uruguay on Monday would secure Portugal's qualification from Group H to the knockout stages with a game to spare after its opening 3-2 win against Ghana.

"This is just the beginning," Ronaldo said in an Instagram post, adding that "there are no impossibilities." But if soccer's ultimate numbers man is to achieve his ambition of lifting the one major trophy that eludes him, he cannot do it by himself. That much was clear against Ghana, when Portugal also needed goals from Joao Felix and Rafael Leao to hold on for victory.

Cristiano Ronaldo | AP

Felix is the likeliest heir to Ronaldo's throne as Portugal's inspiration-in-chief – and has even been linked with a potential move to United. If Qatar is Ronaldo's last World Cup dance, the moves are not quite as fluid as they once were.

'Sorry, mom'

Saudi Arabia coach Hervé Renard felt he disappointed his mother when Poland beat his team on Saturday. The French coach said before the match that it was going to be very special for her because her parents were Polish, "but she will wear her Saudi national shirt. Don't worry."

It's the first Cup that Renard's mother has attended and she was at Lusail Stadium to see one of the biggest upsets when his team defeated Argentina. "I think every week she's watching maybe two, three games," Renard said. "She loves football, so of course, she was very happy."

TODAY'S MATCHES

CAMEROON vs SERBIA

SET-UP TO PLAY ON THE COUNTER

Cameroon showed some good signs against Switzerland before going down and they will likely set up in the same manner. With slightly better finishing, especially from Maxim Choupo Moting and Karl Toko Ekambi, they can trouble the Serbs.

TIME FOR TWO UP FRONT

After posing a creditable challenge for 45 minutes, it melted in the face of sustained Brazil pressure in the second-half. They need a result now and could be forced to pair Dusan Vlahovic and Aleksandar Mitrovic.

SOUTH KOREA vs GHANA

MARRYING INDUSTRY WITH PRECISION

The Koreans had some industry against Uruguay but cutting edge had deserted them (seven shots on goal, zero on target). Son Heung-min is the obvious reference but he will need a a good supporting cast.

BEING MORE PROACTIVE

It's almost like Ghana were waiting for Portugal to score the opening goal before being more adventurous. They were good once they decided to threaten the opposition goal. Can they do it for the whole match, now?

BRAZIL vs SWITZERLAND

A NEYMAR-LESS SELECAO

With the talismanic Neymar out, Brazil will make at least one attacking change. However, they should be fine, they don't rely on him as much these days like they showed against Serbia.

COMPACT AND RESILIENT

The Swiss are devoid of star power but they are the proverbial greater than sum of their parts. They will stay compact, defend in numbers and ensure they maintain a threat. They drew Brazil in 2018, they will hope to do it again.

Saudi viewers angry over ban on WC streaming

DOHA: World Cup viewers in Saudi Arabia say the government has blocked a Qatari-owned streaming service that was supposed to broadcast matches in the kingdom. The suspension has stunned and outraged customers of TOD TV, which holds the rights to show the World Cup in Saudi Arabia. TOD TV is owned by Qatar's beIN Sports Media Group. Saudi-based subscribers who weren't able to watch World Cup matches have flooded TOD TV's Twitter account this week with refund requests and screenshots of the service's website saying "Sorry, the requested page is violating the regulations of the Media Ministry."

In a message shared by subscribers, TOD TV apologized to viewers "for the temporary loss of service." "This is due to reasons beyond our control," it said. "We value our viewers having a premium user experience and are working on resuming normal services as soon as possible."

TOD TV, the Saudi Media Ministry and Foreign ministry did not immediately respond to requests for comment. AP

USHA TO LEAD NEW-LOOK IOA

Olympian & multiple Asiad medallist had been nominated to Rajya Sabha by BJP in July

INDRANEEL DAS @ Chennai

NEW faces and more athletes will be part of the Indian Olympic Association. There are hardly a few names from the previous regime, and going by nominations, it seems the new set of administrators would have sporting background. At the same time, some of the members who could be elected are from the ruling party. Olympian and multiple Asian Games gold medallist PT Usha, who is set to be the president, was nominated to Rajya Sabha by the ruling dispensation.

The senior vice president, an important position in the IOA, will be taken by National Rifle Association of India vice president Ajay Patel as a sole nomination. For treasurer, Indian Weightlifting Federation president Sahdev Yadav is the lone contestant.

As reported by this daily, more athletes are to be part of the administration. London Olympic medallist Gagan Narang is set to be vice president as he is the lone male candidate of the three. The other nominations for the lone female post are Rajlaxmi Singh Deo of Rowing Federation of India and Alaknanda Ashok of Badminton Association of India. Similarly, for joint secretary, All India Football Federation chief and BJP leader Kalyan Chaubey is the lone male candidate while there are three names for one female post. There are 12 names for the four — two male & two female — posts of executive council. It needs to be seen if there will be elections for these posts. Olympic medallist wrestler Yogeshwar Dutt, who contested elections as a BJP candidate twice, and former World Cup medallist archer Dola Banerjee are the two SOMs.

Like a senior member was pointing, the fight between two factions former IOA president Narinder Batra and secretary general Rajeev Mehta cost them dear. The two factions never compromised and played into the hands of other interested parties. Even while negotiating on Sunday, they did not have much to offer because the numbers were skewed in favour of Usha and her panel.

Youth World Boxing: Ravina strikes gold

AGENCIES @ New Delhi

REIGNING Asian champion Ravina displayed splendid tenacity to punch her way to gold in the 63kg category final as India ended the Youth Men's and Women's World Boxing Championships with 11 medals in La Nucia, Spain.

Ravina was up against Megan deCler of Netherlands in her final bout. In spite of not getting off to the best of starts, the Indian pugilist utilised her technical ability and quick movement to mount an impressive comeback against her Dutch opponent. The fiercely contested bout finished in favour of the 2022 Asian Youth gold medallist Indian who won 4-3 by split decision after the bout was reviewed. In the other final, Kirti (81+ kg) lost 0-5 to 2022 European youth champion Cliona Elizabeth D'Arcy of Ireland to settle for a silver. India was a dominant force at the event as the 25-member team bagged 11 medals — four gold, three silver and four bronze. India won the highest number of medals — eight — in the women's section, followed by Kazakhstan (5) and Uzbekistan (4).

Brazil confident of Neymar comeback to lead World Cup bid

ANDY SCOTT @ Doha

BRAZIL are confident that Neymar will return to lead their bid to win a sixth World Cup despite the world's most expensive player suffering an ankle injury in their opening match in Qatar.

The Brazil captain came off late on in Thursday's 2-0 win over Serbia with what was later diagnosed as a sprained ankle and has since been ruled out of their second Group G outing against Switzerland on Monday. Doubts have even been raised in some quarters that he might struggle to feature again at the tournament, which finishes with the final in Doha on December 18. But defender Marquinhos, who is also a teammate of the forward at Paris Saint-Germain, said Neymar has since been spending his days undergoing intensive physiotherapy in an attempt to recover full fitness as soon possible. "At the time it was difficult for him and after the game he was sad which I think is normal given how much he has dreamt of this," centre-back Marquinhos said at a press conference in the Qatari capital on Sunday. "Now, after the tests and the treatment, he is doing physiotherapy 24 hours a day which shows how much he wants to be back with us. We don't know when, but we hope it's as soon as possible."

Brazil coach Tite insisted in the immediate aftermath of the win over Serbia that the 30-year-old Neymar would definitely play again at the tournament, but this time he was rather more measured when pressed on the subject of the superstar's fitness, as well as that of right-back Danilo. "I believe that Neymar and Danilo are going to play again at this World Cup. I do. But medically, clinically, I am in no position to say anything," he admitted. A Brazil win against Switzerland at Doha's Stadium 974 could be enough for them to secure a place in the last 16 with one group game to spare, depending on the result of the earlier Group G match between Cameroon and Serbia. Ending capital punishment in France

LAW

PARIS: On a biting cold morning on November 28, 1972, a Frenchman was guillotined for a murder he did not commit, in a case that so traumatised his lawyer he would spend the rest of his life campaigning to end the death penalty.

Roger Bontems, 36, was beheaded for being an accessory to the brutal murder of a nurse and a guard during a break-out attempt at a prison in eastern France. Seven minutes after his death in the courtyard of La Sante prison in Paris, his co-conspirator Claude Buffet—a 39-year-old man convicted of a double murder that had sent shockwaves through France—met a similar end.

Among the witnesses of the executions was Robert Badinter, a crusading young lawyer who was haunted by his failure to save the life of his client Bontems.

In September 1971, Buffet, convinces fellow inmate Roger Bontems, who is serving a 20-year term for assault and aggravated theft, to join him in a high-stakes escape attempt.

The pair fake illness and are taken to the infirmary where, armed with knives carved out of spoons, they take a nurse and a guard hostage.

This precipitates a standoff with the authorities that keeps the French glued to their TV screens until police storm the prison at dawn and find both hostages dead.

The grisly murder of the nurse, a mother of two, and the prison warden, father of a one-year-old girl, sparks an impassioned debate about the death penalty. Buffet, who is portrayed in the media as a heartless monster, admits to killing the guard and the nurse, and defies the court to sentence him to death.

Bontems is found guilty of merely being an accessory. But he is also given the death penalty, amid intense pressure from prison wardens' groups seeking revenge for their colleague's death.

Badinter appeals to the highest court in the land not to apply the law of "an eye for an eye". His pleas fall on deaf ears in the face of a poll showing 63 % of the French favour capital punishment.

On November 28, 1971, Bontems and Buffet are killed in the courtyard of La Sante prison, under a giant black canopy erected to prevent the media snapping pictures from a helicopter.

"I swore to myself on leaving the courtyard of la Sante prison that morning at dawn, that I would spend the rest of my life combatting the death penalty," Badinter told AFP in 2021.

When he was appointed justice minister in President Francois Mitterrand's first Socialist government in June 1981, he made ending the death penalty an immediate priority.

Its abolition was finally adopted by parliament on September 30, 1981, after a landmark address by Badinter to MPs.

Decrying a "killer" justice system, he said: "Tomorrow, thanks to you, there will no longer be the stealthy executions at dawn, under a black canopy, that shame us all."

Mexican refugees set their sights on Canada

MIGRANTS

MONTREAL: Pedro Meraz says living in Colima, Mexico, was like living in a war zone, with shootings, burning cars and dismembered bodies being left outside of schools.

When his wife Rocio Gonzalez, a 28-year-old lawyer who worked with abused women, began receiving death threats from a cartel and the local authorities ignored her pleas for assistance, they knew they had to leave.

"They knew where we lived and what car we drove," said Meraz, 41, who taught at The University of Colima, near the Pacific Coast and about 485 kilometres west of Mexico City. The family is part of a surge in the number of Mexicans who have requested asylum in Canada this year. Due to the relative ease of obtaining asylum in Canada compared to the US, visa-free travel between Mexico and Canada, and the threat of violence back home, more than 8,000 Mexican nationals have sought refugee status in 2022. That's almost five times as many as last year and more than twice as many as in 2019, the last year before the pandemic and the travel restrictions that accompanied it.

In the first nine months of 2022, the Immigration and Refugee Board of Canada, an independent tribunal that investigates and decides asylum cases, finalised more than 2,700 claims by Mexican asylum seekers. Of those, 1,032 were accepted, 1,256 were rejected; and the remaining 400-plus were either abandoned, withdrawn, or had other outcomes, said Christian Tessier, an IRB spokesperson.

The Kannadigas Golden Food (K.G.F) is a space inspired by the blockbuster Kannada film series K.G.F

DESE GOWDA

DON'T be surprised if you're given a suitcase upon entering Kannadigas Golden Food (K.G.F). After all, this restaurant in Sahakara Nagar, has been conceptualised on the lines of the blockbuster film by the same name. The menu, designed to look like a treasure map, comes inside a suitcase with a code that has to be unlocked. "Our menu offers multiple cuisines from across the world. This is inspired by how gold is smuggled from across the globe in the movie," says Srinivas Muralidhar, co-founder of the newly-opened space.

Themed restaurants aren't new to Bengaluru, with nearly two dozen such spaces – based on themes ranging from Hollywood movies to Shakespeare – dotting the city. But up until now, the city lacked a themed restaurant based on a Kannada movie.

Two Bengalureans have sought to change that. In fact, when you first enter K.G.F, you are more likely to be reminded of Narachi, a limestone mine used as a facade to conduct illegal gold mining operations in the 2018 film and its 2022 sequel. With its imposing and dark presence, the fictional mine remains an ominous character within the movie. Muralidhar and Yuvaraj, close friends and fans of K.G.F, have tried to evoke the essense of Narachi with their restaurant.

Muralidhar and Yuvaraj

Muralidhar, a first-time restaurateur, quit his job at the Karnataka Road Transport Corporation (KSRTC) to open the restaurant. "I worked as a junior assistant for nearly six years. Even though it was a stable job, I found it creatively lacking," he shares. After quitting his job, Muralidhar felt that a restaurant would be the right business to get into given the boom in the hospitality industry following the lockdown. But with little know-how about the business, he turned to his friend, Yuvraj, who already runs two other restaurants in the city.

Together, they started brainstorming ideas for their new venture, eventually landing on K.G.F. "We decided to base it on K.G.F because there aren't any other mining-themed restaurants in the city, or for that matter in the country," Yuvraj says, adding that K.G.F's unprecedented success and popularity on a national scale meant that it was an easy decision to base their restaurant on the movie.

Designed by Muralidhar and Yuvraj themselves, the restaurant is packed with features inspired by both the movie series and the Kolar Gold Fields. From the jet-black façade that wouldn't look out of place at an amusement park to the imposing mural of a railway line at the entrance, every detail at the restaurant has been carefully thought out. "The entire restaurant is divided into several zones, each evoking a different aspect of a gold mine," concludes Yuvaraj.

(A meal for two costs 500)

I'm very happy that K.G.F is inspiring people. Looking at the restaurant's design and aesthetics, it took me back to the days when we were working on the movie. I might visit the restaurant when I'm free

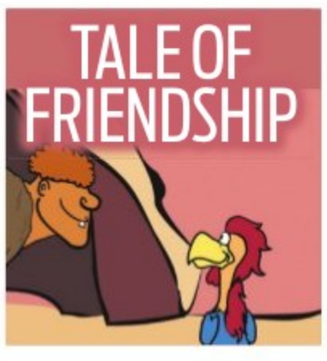
Animated film Caveman and Chicken made by a city-based studio recently won international awards

MONIKA MONALISA

It's a cute story of a caveman and a chicken which stole the hearts of many. And it just feels worth it when short animated film Caveman and Chicken by city-based studio BloomTelly Animations recently won awards at the Sangrur International Film Festival 2022 and the One Leaf International Film Festival 2022 in six categories.



Mahesh Mishra, the brain behind BloomTelly Animations, which is based in Yeshwanthpur, says the five-minute-film, which took almost a month to be made, has around 7,200 frames and is made in the classical animation format. "Every second has around 2,500 frames. The movie is also engaging and relatable for an older audience as it focuses on our Indian culture. Recognition of any kind is motivating, but when 'desi' content gets recognised on international platforms, it adds a different flavour to it," says Mishra.

Even if many parents prefer western classics, there is an equal demand for 'desi stories'. "Along with the popular western cartoons, parents prefer many Indian stories because it gets the child connected to their roots at a very young age. Local cartoons have a lot of scope. You can see that from the popularity of the Motu Patlu, Chota Bheem to name a few. For example, Caveman and Chicken is set in India so it has a very local sentiment," says Mishra, who believes that Indian cartoons will soon get translated into different foreign languages.

Once holding the title of being an animation hub , Mishra feels that Bengaluru still holds onto the title. "It is a multicultural city which gives good exposure to animation," says Mishra.

KNIGHTS IN WHITE SATIN

RUBINATIONS
Rubi Chakravarti
Writer, actor and funny girl

SINCE my whole family is together again, family discussions, varied opinions, banter and arguments are a natural progression! I often hear myself rue the day when I 'allowed' them (the children) this quantum of freedom of speech! Of course that leads to other discussions and war-of-words on issues like 'control-freaking' dominance and even bigotry! Sometimes it's way simpler to give up!

Topics that seem to dominate our conversations seemed to centre on 'political-correctness' in one's speech. The dichotomy is that the term, 'freedom of expression,' 'having opinions' and the correctness in one's speech gets their wires crossed sometimes. One person's freedom of expression may well be another person's captivity of thought. I prefer the good old fashioned word 'manners'. I do admit that sometimes the very virtue of being mannered seems to allow the brutes to get away with murder, but at the end of the day...one has to like one's own reflection in the mirror!

Madhav Sehgal, Cordon Bleu Chef Frédéric Deshayes & Harry Kosato

My family is all together at home and hearth after a couple of years. We meet up in batches and for short spurts of time. After years my home is full again with our newest munchkin, barking dog, nanny et al. Now this type of configuration definitely demands a day out in the country-side.

Abhilash and Adarsh Narahari

So behaving like real city slickers, we bundled ourselves into two cars, (one car had baby seat, pram and other baby sundry), and drove for a solid two hours (with the car radio blaring Country Roads) to a pristine location called ReWild to indulge in a little fête champêtre. Rolling hills, with big trees and the crisp clean air was simply delicious! Two young co-founders Abhilash and Adarsh Narahari made sure there wasn't a stone left unturned for their guests to do a reconnaissance of the place while enjoying a live band, delicious barbeques, cocktails and beers and plenty of activities for all ages. Periodically rough-track jeeps would give us a tour and I am told that many lifestyle living plots were sold that day. I was deliriously happy just singing along and swigging beer with my family. We spent quality time enjoying the gorgeous sunset and each other.

It was a particularly hectic week socially, and I must admit that long drives and wearing heels wasn't particularly good for my twisted back. But as singer Sia crooned I'm Unstoppable, I went forth without giving my aching back a second thought. It was The Chaîne des Rôtisseurs induction week and I was terribly excited to belong to this prestigious International Association of Gastronomy, headed by the Bailli Délégué, Rishad Minocher, in India. In association with La Chaîne des Rôtisseurs, Bailliage de l'Inde, The Leela Palace hosted a chef's table with Chef Frédéric Deshayes in collaboration with Cordon Bleu, and followed it up with a grand induction gala 'dinner theatre' the next day.

The induction was a solemn affair with all the inductees (bigwigs from the world of hospitality and industry) being knighted by the 'Bailli Délégué' and the oath and ceremonies that followed. It may sound like an out-dated protocol but there is something to be said about tradition, protocol and respect. This brings me back to the debate on graciousness, politeness, courtesy and etiquette.

Words are like a sword. Even the blunt edge can cause deep wounds.

A PLAGUE TALE: REQUIEM - AMICIA GONE ROGUE

ARE YOU GAME?
Anusha Ganapathi
@quofles

(This economics graduate spends her leisure time preparing for the zombie apocalypse)

The Plague Tale' series is a medieval twist on the zombie apocalypse format, in that it is not zombies, but millions of slimy black rats. In the darkness, they haunt the cities, feasting on every moving being in sight. Their red eyes glow, and it may be the last thing anyone sees — except if they hold light. Amicia, Hugo, and Lucas have so far escaped and made it to game two. But will they survive 'Requiem' — with all the new enemies, and more unpredictable rat behaviour?

At the beginning of 'Requiem', we realise that not a lot of time has passed since the end of 'Innocence'. Young Hugo is still very much young and sick — and is promised respite from his illness in a new town. As they make their gruelling journey in the hope of success, we see a changed Amicia. If I thought Amicia did horrible things in game one, it's nothing compared to her rage in this game. Seasoned by the brutality that her family had seen in the past year, Amicia is no longer the scared and quiet shadow that crawled past guards. She is fast to pull out her catapult to hurl stones at the target before the dull enemy turns around to say "Huh?".

In keeping with Amicia's new-found aggression brings a new gameplay improvement: unlimited stones in the ammunition bag. This is the first and best of a series of improvements in skill trees and inventory management that 'Requiem' brings. Innocence had a truly annoying side-mission hunt to search for rocks that would suit Amicia's catapult — with the added disadvantage of only a limited number of stones allowed in the inventory. This had seriously restricted the movement ability, especially if someone as impatient as me were to play the game. Besides infinite ammo, we also have workbenches which are more in the fashion of those we would see in games like 'The Last of Us' — supplying a little flexibility on the combat experience that we'd like to have.

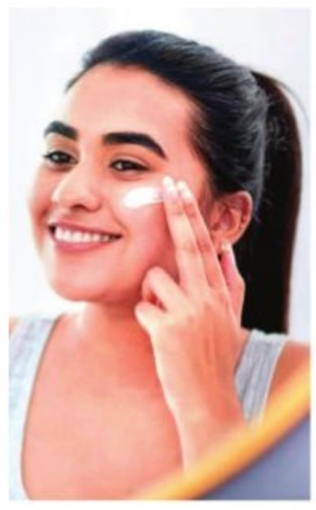
'A Plague Tale: Requiem' has a larger story, making the game almost twice as long as the first. This is great, because as much as I disagree with the way Amicia does things — I am truly invested in the lives and stories of all the people in the game and want more of it. It is currently available as part of the Xbox game pass subscription for the PC and Xbox, and also playable on the PlayStations, and the Switch.

Beauty & Brands

PAIRED WITH PANACHE
Anuja Pandey
(The author is social media influencer @loftyspectrums and lifestyle coach)

BRANDS nowadays are providing ways to customers to self reflect, connect, understand and address their personal needs. When it comes to buying beauty products, there are some who love to follow a regular regimen while there are those who love to experience the pleasure of shopping and exploring. And here comes the role of the experts to guide and consult. It is important to have a hyper personalised experience whether at an event in a plush home with socialites buzzing the beauty game or in a store with brand experts and beauty writers throwing light on the efficacy of the products. Thus interpersonal relationship is integral to brand building and establishing an emotional bond with clients, thereby creating a brand base while obtaining a meaningful value and spreading awareness.

Just last week, the suave Kiran Kalra, one of the two founders of 'The Coveted' invited a bunch of socialite women and entrepreneurs to her lavish home over a high tea (read fine wine and bubbly) event to celebrate another gorgeous lady entrepreneur Aishwarya Biswas, who got funded by Shark Tank India for her skin care brand 'Auli'. "Skincare is not scary! It never was, it never has to be. But in today's fast paced and polluted world, it's a necessity. Once you understand the science behind what/why/when/how, your relationship with your skin will be different, the desire for skincare will be real and the expectations from it will be measurable. This is my way of trying to put some method into the madness and explaining why each step is important!" says Biswas.



Bengaluru also saw the launch of the physical store of one of the biggest e-commerce beauty apps for skin care 'Foxy - Beauty & Makeup Shopping'. The launch was attended by influencers with a talk by beauty experts coupled with music and experience, touch and feel of the products. "We house more than 300 serums, Korean brands and others in skin and haircare and are hyper personalised. We not only have weekly themed masterclasses with these beauty brands but also have experiential services and in-house experts for guiding the skin enthusiasts in choosing the right products. Digital first shoppers prefer online window shopping, the discovery of new trends, checking prices and reviews online. At the store, our app enables them to do all of the above while the store allows you to touch and feel the products and talk to an expert," says Kartik Sheth, CEO and founder of the brand.

The buzzword in marketing is relationships and activating experiences that address the complexities of modern living and not just sales. Branding is more personalised, niche and is an interpersonal relationship between brands and clients to build consumers in the long term.

Pruthvi Ambaar shifts to action with Matysa Gandha

The actor, who has had a lover boy image post Dia, is set to explore a different genre by playing a cop in this film

CE FEATURES

DEVARAJ Poojary, the director of Kinare and the yet-to-be-released web series Kargil nights, is set to helm Pruthvi Ambaar's next, titled Matsya Gandha. Popular for his romantic drama, Dia, Pruthvi hopes to shift to mass entertainers with this film, which is billed to be an out-and-out action film.

Pruthvi who has a lineup of films, including Dooradarshana, For Regn, Life is Beautiful, and a project with Darshan Apoorva at different stages of production will begin shooting for Matsya Gandha in December. "I wanted to test my versatility in different genres and characterisations. Secondly, being into martial arts, my basic strength has always been in action, and Matsya Gandha will showcase that facet. I will be playing a cop for the first time in Matsya Gandha," says Pruthvi, who shared the first look still from the film.

The film is produced under the Kalika Productions banner and stars Gopalkrishna Deshpande, Viranika Shetty, Kiran Naik, Prashanth Siddi, Ganapathi, Natana Prashanth, and Raghu Pandeshwar in important roles.

PREM'S DAUGHTER AMRUTHA TO DEBUT WITH TAGARU PALYA

She will star alongside Nagabhushana in the Umesh K Krupa directorial

A SHARADHAA

WE had recently reported that Nagabhushana is set to star in Dhananjay's third production, Tagaru Palya. Made under Daali Pictures, Tagaru Palya marks the directorial debut of Umesh K Krupa.

With the film set to go on floors this December, the makers are in the process of finalising the cast, and the latest is that Amrutha Prem, the daughter of well-known Kannada actor Prem (Nenapirali) will debut with this project. Recently, Prem's son, Ekanth, made a mark with Sharan's Guru Shishyaru.

Though cinema was not in Amrutha's mind anytime soon, she was into doing reels on social media, and the director spotted her in a video shared by her father on his social media accounts. "Dhananjay, who is producing the film called me and said that he was keen to cast my daughter for a film made under his banner. I heard the story, and it was a realistic subject. Moreover, I was happy for her to be getting that perfect launchpad in a good film, and a well-known banner," says Prem.

Talking about the film, Umesh says, "Tagaru Palya is a rural subject, revolving around a function, and villagers who cook food at the temple premises and offer it to the deity. The film will reflect life, traditions, and rooted culture."

About casting Prem's daughter, director Umesh said that he was looking for a fresh face, and Amrutha fit the bill. "She will be seen alongside Nagabhushana and has a strong character, and she will have a lot of scope to perform," says Umesh.

Nagabhushana

Apart from Nagabhushana and Amrutha, Tagaru Palya also stars Tara, Rangayana Raghu, and Sharath Lohitashwa. With Vasuki Vaibhav scoring the music, Tagaru Palya's cinematography will be by SK Rao.

'Thimayya & Thimayya will remind people that Shubra Aiyappa exists'

CE FEATURS

SHIVARAJKUMAR-starrer Vajrakaya (2015) marked model-turned-actor Shubra Aiyappa's first step in the movies. After a long gap of seven years, she is back in Kannada cinema with Thimayya & Thimayya, which is set to release this week. "I had a film, titled John Seena, directed by Suni, which had me playing a unique role. Unfortunately, it did not take off," says Shubra.

Directed by Sanjay Sharma, Thimayya & Thimayya produced by Rajesh Sharma also features Anant Nag, Diganth, and Aindrita Ray. When asked about the delay between her acting assignments, Shubra says, "When I entered cinema, I didn't have any formal training in acting. So I went to the New York Film Academy to do an acting course. Then, there was the pandemic, which gave people the feeling that I took a really long break. In fact, I did have some roles come my way, but I couldn't really take them up. It was only Thimayya & Thimayya that excited me enough to get back to cinema."

Owing to the sabbatical, many might not know of Shubra's passion for acting. "In my head, I'm an actor. But the sabbatical did not prove my acting capabilities. In fact, at NYFA, I topped the class. But practically, things didn't work out the way I wanted it to. So when I got a call from makers of Thimayya & Thimayya, I was happy and excited," says Shubra, who adds that she is optimistic and feels that everything happens for a reason."This is my time. Hope people notice my performance in Thimayya & Thimayya, and it will be a good restart to my career."

Talking about her role in Thimayya & Thimayya, the actor says that her character 'Sowmya' is similar to who she is. "When I got the narration from Sanjay Sharma, I felt the character was so me. I am a very ambitious person. I am very organised. In the film, I play the hero's backbone, mainly because he doesn't have these attributes. It is my character that stabilises him and puts the character back on track. I play an important role in his journey."

Talking about ad filmmaker-turned-director Sanjay Sharma, Shubra, who understands the world of modelling and advertising, says, "Sanjay understands the importance of the right work ethics, and the value of time. I felt he was a perfectionist, who never tolerated mediocrity. He ensured all the actors gave their best. It was nice to work with somebody like him. It was like going back to film school.

With Thimayya & Thimayya, Shubra also fulfilled one other dream and dubbed for herself in the film. "I'm happy to have dubbed for Sowmya," says Shubra, listing out the roles coming her way post her sabbatical.

.Apart from the Rishi-starred Ramana Avatara, Shubra will also be seen in the Tamil film, Aganya. "The film is about a father-daughter relationship, and I am working with Aadukalam Naren on the project. I have 10 days of portions to shoot. Meanwhile, I hope Thimayya & Thimayya reminds people that Shubra exists, and more opportunities come my way," she signs off.

Shubra Aiyappa talks about her second outing in Kannada, working with ad filmmaker Sanjay Sharma, and the way forward

Seth McFarlane's Ted prequel series wraps filming

CE FEATURES

Seth McFarlane's upcoming prequel series based on the foul-mouthed Teddy Bear character Ted has reportedly wrapped its filming. The CG animated character, voiced by McFarlane himself, was first introduced in the 2012 live-action comedy film Ted starring Mark Wahlberg in the lead. The film, written and directed by Seth McFarlane, spawned a sequel in 2015.

Seth McFarlane confirmed the end of the film's shooting through an Instagram post that showed Ted sitting through the camera monitor. The series is reportedly set in the 1990s and will feature younger versions of the characters from the original film. The cast of the series includes Scott Grimes, Alanna Ubach, Max Burkholder, and Giorgia Whigham. Burkholder will play the younger version of John Bannett, a character previously portrayed by Mark Wahlberg in the film. Ubach and Grimes will be playing Bannett's parents in the film.

In an interview with Collider, McFarlane elaborated on the plot of the show by saying, "It's a prequel that takes place in 1993 and embraces that era, embraces the nineties and tracks what is essentially Ted's adolescence, I guess. Ted and John's adolescence. And, growing up in a Boston suburb. Look, as somebody who grew up in that part of the country, it's a fun thing to try and recreate."
